Wheat Down
Any Curiosity?
Gamble Gently
Lenin's Vamp

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1920.

The price of wheat is "slashed." So says the report to those that speculate in grain. It agitates the speculators that are "long." The rank and file, if they can't make money by "buying" wheat, will make money by "selling" wheat; it makes no difference to them.

What about the farmer? If he couldn't raise wheat, with farm labor at four, five and six dollars a day, for $2.25 a bushel, what will he do with wheat selling for December delivery below $2?

And, more important, what will the public do when the farmers decide that it doesn't pay to raise wheat?

If you have doubt or curiosity concerning the election, ask a thousand men north of the Mason and Dixie line "How are you going to vote?" You will be able to write on a small part of your cuff the names of those that answer "Cox." Hundreds will tell you, "I don't know anybody that is going to vote the Democratic ticket."

Unless something happens in the next few weeks the defeat of Cox will be the most emphatic and thorough since the defeat of Horace Greeley, who deserved a better fate.

Do you gamble in steel stocks? Gamble cautiously, and be doubly cautious if you gamble in little "war bride" steel companies. If steel competition comes with cutting of rates, your little "war bride" steel concern, fighting the big steel company, will be like a small skye terrier fighting a steam roller. One good roll and it will be all over.

Keep this fact distinct in your calculations: The United States Steel Corporation can make and sell steel at a profit for considerably less than the little companies can manufacture it.

Profound, learned students of Russian matters, carrying on their studies three thousand miles from Petrograd, announce gravely that one lady has complete control of Lenin and another control of Trotzky.

Lenin's "vamp" is a Russian young woman who sings for a living, or did. Trotzky's is a French dancing girl. At this "news" a Frenchman would quote the royal spokesman defending the Salic law: "When a king is on the throne some woman always rules France; a good thing for the country."

To the ignorant and prosperous bourgeosie of America, when you have said that a French dancing girl rules Lenin, you have said enough. That convinces it. Very sweetly, ignorant American with a collection of Russian bonds in his safe, that this country under no circumstances should recognize the Russian government.

As it happens, Lenin is well watched, looked after and cared for by his wife. He once took considerable interest in the famous Rosa Luxemburg, intelligent German Jewess, from whom he got many of his radical ideas. She, however, has since been murdered, and Lenin is probably too busy for foolishness yet.

We have a league of our own inside the boundaries of the United States and need not go abroad looking for trouble or occupation.

The forty-eight States are forty-eight nations. Texas alone could feed the whole world, and will one day have a population greater than that of the British islands.

The forty-eight nations of the United States of America, united forever, with free trade and only friendly competition among them, are quite a sufficient "League of Nations."

What kind of a mind is it that suggests making this great union of States a mere unit in another union, to be ruled from across the water?

H. G. Wells is in Petrograd. When he tells what he has seen you will know something about Russia. He is one of the few that knows how to see a thing clearly and describe it simply.

He begins, intelligently, by realizing that the people of Russia are as different from the western people as sheep are from horses. It will be worth your while to read all that he says and writes when he comes back. He is quoted as saying that Russia drifts toward communism, western Europe toward collectivism. Both are bad for individualism, which will hold the fort here.

BRITAIN IN PACT WITH RUSSIA

Commercial Agreement Effected With Soviet Government, Say London Papers

By International News Service.

London, Oct. 5.—A commercial agreement has been reached between Great Britain and Soviet Russia, it was unofficially announced in the press today. Both the Morning Press and the Times publish what purports to be part of the text of the agreement.

According to these publications, the British government promises not to inquire into the source of nor to seize gold, securities and commodities sent by Russia in payment for goods. Russia, on her side, recognizes her liability to pay for goods supplied and services rendered to the pre-revolutionary government.

German Socialists Vote on Alliance With Moscow

Berlin, Oct. 5.—A referendum is being taken among the independent socialists throughout Germany on the question of whether the German independents shall join up with Moscow, and indications today were that there would be a slight majority against such a junction.

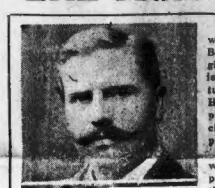
However, the returns are incomplete and the definite result cannot be foreseen accurately. If the return is negative, the German independents will follow their own program, but it is likely that there will be a new division in the ranks of the German extremist Socialists.

If a fight develops among the German independents, government officials claim "the danger of Bolshevism will be postponed."

9 AUTOISTS FINED IN SOUTH BOSTON COURT

Twenty-four autoists were arraigned in the South Boston court today for overspeeding on Dorchester avenue. One was fined $10, eight $5, ten cases were filed and four continued. Joseph F. Kilmartin paid the $10 fine. Those fined $5 were: George Rosewood, South Boston; Benjamin Litchits, Roxbury; Thurber F. Fink, Boston; Joseph E. Everett, Roxbury; James E. Steven, South Braintree; Cecil Leacy, Newton; Joseph A. LeClair, Quincy, and Anthony Batatics, Dorchester.

Dr. Aked Tells Why Erin Must Be Free



REV. CHARLES F. AKED, D. D.

Charles Frederick Aked, who tells "Why Ireland Must Be Free" in a social article, beginning in today's American, is a clergyman, author and lecturer of international fame. He was called from a British pulpit to the Rockefeller, Jr., church in New York and now preaches in Kansas City.

He is prepared to speak to us with the social, religious and political problems of England than is Aked. He was born at Nottingham, England, in 1864, educated in England and America and ordained in the Baptist ministry in 1886. After filling the pulpit of the Rockefeller Church in New York, from 1907 to 1911, he went to the First Congregational Church of San Francisco and thence to the First Congregational Church, Kansas City, Mo.

Text: "And gave unto us the ministry of reconciliation." II Corinthians v: 18.

It cannot be good for the United States of America, it cannot be good for Great Britain, it cannot be good for the world that there should be in America a reservoir of ill-feeling toward Great Britain, constantly fed by streams of Irish resentment. It is not good that there should be a hatred of Great Britain engendered in America by Irishmen in America or Irishmen in Ireland. The future of the world demands the closest friendship between all branches of English-speaking people. Great Britain and this

Cox Win Means Hell, Says Joe Cannon

Chicago, Oct. 5.—"We, the people of the United States are now in purgatory," said "Uncle" Joe Cannon today, speaking at the Republican State headquarters.

"Four years more of Democratic administration and we would be in hell. We can get out of purgatory, but we can never get out of hell. As a plain citizen, my judgment is that we will take a chance in November of emerging from purgatory."

R. R. CAR SUPPLY SHOWS GENERAL IMPROVEMENT

Washington, Oct. 5.—General improvement in car supply is reported today by the car service division of the American Railroad Association in its semi-monthly report on conditions. Requirements for box cars continue heavy throughout the country, W. L. Barnes, executive manager of the division, declared.

THREE STATES SHOW POPULATION GAIN

Washington, Oct. 5.—The 1920 population of Kansas is 1,769,185, an increase since 1910 of 78,236, or 4.6 per cent., the Census Bureau announced today. Other population announcements were: North Carolina, 1920 population 2,556,486; increase since 1910, 350,199, or 15.9 per cent. Arizona, 1920 population 333,273; increase since 1910, 128,919, or 63.1 per cent.

CATCH TWO IN LONG CHASE

Joseph J. Murphy, Accused of Stealing Auto, Held, but Companion Escapes

Former Patrolman Joseph J. Murphy, who until the police strike was attached to the City Hall avenue station, was arrested after an exciting chase by Inspector Donovan and charged with the theft of an automobile.

Another man, who was driving the automobile, was arrested, but escaped as he was being taken into police headquarters.

The car found in possession of the men is the property of Arthur S. Baker of No. 318 St. Paul street, Brookline.

Under the seat, according to Inspector Donovan, were found a loaded revolver, a blackjack, a flashlight and a candle, such as is often used by footmobs.

Following the arrest the police watched a cottage in a nearby suburb to which it was expected Murphy's companion would return. Several other cottages in and around Boston were searched for possible loot.

The stolen car was recognized by Inspector Donovan as it was driven along Beach street. Commandeering a motor truck, he gave chase.

The pursuit extended through Kneeland and Kingston streets to Atlantic avenue, and came to an end at the Federal Street bridge.

Murphy's companion made his escape while Inspector Donovan was taking the former patrolman from the stolen automobile in Pemberton square. The man quietly slipped out the other side of the machine and vanished.

WORCESTER POLICEMAN KILLED BY MOTOR TRUCK

Worcester, Oct. 5.—Patrolman William B. Deedy of the local police was instantly killed today when struck by a motor truck driven by Samuel Malta of Minot street, Boston. Malta said the officer stepped from behind an automobile parked on the wrong side of the road.

Two British Nobles to "Duel to Death"

By International News Service.

London, Oct. 5.—A sensation has been created in high English society circles by a challenge to a duel to the death between two noblemen, said the Daily Express today.

The challenge was sent by Sir Claude Desrepigny to Lord Kenyon to satisfy a point of honor. Lord Lonsdale was named as one of the seconds.

The meeting probably will take place on one of the channel islands. If it is not allowed on British soil, it will take place in Belgium or France.

It is pointed out in the challenge that the duel is not to be an affair of mock heroics, but a fight for life blood.

FEDERAL PROBE OF NEWSPRINT

Manufacturers Accused of Fixing Price of Paper by Illegal Agreement

Washington, Oct. 5.—The Department of Justice has instituted an investigation into the charge that the price of newsprint paper has been fixed by illegal agreement, it was learned here.

Despite the fact that the so-called newsprint paper trust was dissolved by order of the Federal court in New York some months ago, information has reached the department that certain manufacturers have disobeyed the court and are again exchanging information as to prices, costs and other matters relative to the manufacture and sale of newsprint paper.

So great has the newsprint stringency become that only recently many newspapers were compelled to cut down the size of their daily editions, not only of news, but of advertising as well.

Following an investigation by the Federal Trade Commission, a year ago, the Department of Justice brought a number of newsprint manufacturers before the court, with the result that they agreed not to act in concert. It is an alleged breach of this agreement that the Department of Justice is now investigating.

Important facts for today's World's series baseball game:

Time of game—2 o'clock Eastern Daylight Saving time.

Participants—Cleveland Indians and Brooklyn Dodgers.

Betting odds—Cleveland a favorite to win the series at odds of 6 to 5. Even money on the outcome of the first game.

Cleveland was a 10 to 9 and 10 to 8 favorite in most of the bets made in Boston today. A few wagers were made at even money.

Brooklyn, Oct. 5.—Bribery scandals were forgotten, and the old-time enthusiasm returned with a rush today as 25,000 clamorous followers of the Cleveland Americans and the Brooklyn Nationals gathered on Ebbets field to watch the duel for supremacy in the world of baseball.

Encouraged by the bright sunshine and cool October breeze, which made ideal baseball weather, the fans mustered early.

CLEVELAND RULES SLIGHT FAVORITE IN BETTING

Long lines of belated ticket purchasers, immemorial feature of a World Series, were on hand long before the box offices were open.

The Cleveland Indians ruled 6-to-5 favorites in the betting. This, however, was besides certain "experts" who direct Wall Street betting, had ruled it so.

There was plenty of Brooklyn money in sight, and plenty of Brooklyn confidence.

PLAYERS "ON THE LEVEL."

The general sentiment seemed to be that the teams were evenly matched; that the players were "on the level," and that the series would be run in such a manner as to in part remove the stigma upon organized baseball.

Tris Speaker and his Indians did not get in until this morning. In this they broke a precedent. It has been a tradition with "invading" teams that they must practice on the enemy's diamond the day before the series starts.

Speaker, however, who radiates confidence in the ability of his young men, felt that they could dispense with this day before practice and still go onto the field fit to battle for their lives.

The Indians were eagerly inspected by the Brooklyn fans as they disembarked from their Pullmans. None was the worse for wear. All bristled with the confidence of their fighting manager.

ALL "HARIN' TO GO"

Brooklyn fans were equally confident, their hopes buoyed up by the reassuring statements issuing from the wigwam of Manager Wilbert Robinson.

"Robbie" assured his followers that the team with which he would today do battle with the Westerners was an organization far superior to the team with which he won the pennant and lost the series four years ago.

"We are all fit, and rarin' to go," declared Robinson just before the game. "We're going to be the world's champions. We have a lot of game players, and gameness counts in a short series as much as machine-like perfection."

It was evident that Robinson would start a southpaw against the Indians —either Rube Marquard or Sherry Smith. Manager Speaker was warming up Coveleskie and Bagby.

Early pitched Saturday. Coveleskie was regarded as the logical starter.

SPEAKER MAKES SHIFTS.

The wily Speaker was making tentative shifts in his batting order as the teams warmed up. It was considered likely that if a left-hander started on the mound for the Rotarians he would lead off with Evans in left field, and send "Smoky Joe" Wood to right field in the place of Smith.

Johnson was slated for first base although George Burns was ready and anxious to preside at that corner.

The four umpires who will referee the big contest were on hand early. They are Bill Klem, Hank O'Day, Tom Connolly and Bill Dineen. O'Day will be at the plate, Connolly at first, Klem at second and Dineen at third.

IN LINE ALL NIGHT.

All the reserved seats for the first game were sold early today. Lines of people streaming away from the box offices in all directions, waited patiently for the opening of the sale of the unreserved seats, which began at 10 o'clock. Some confirmed fans remained in line all night, defying a rainstorm which broke over the city about midnight.

Although the two teams sum up fairly even, the main experts point to Brooklyn's strong staff of pitchers as the main reason for giving the Dodgers the slight odds in this respect. Grimes, Pfeffer, Cadore and Mamaux, righthanders, and Marquard, Smith and Mitchell, southpaws, are a formidable list as compared with Coveleskie and Bagby, righthanders, and "Duster" Mails, lefthander, for the Indians.

All the games or games postponed because of weather conditions will be played in Ebbets Field, but the postponement occurs until a legal and divisive game has been played.

Mayor Hylan will throw the first ball over the plate.

Shoots Wife to Send Her "to Heaven"

By International News Service.

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 5.—"Do you want to go to Heaven, Ruth?"

Weldon White propounded this question to his wife today and before she could answer two revolver shots rang out and the woman fell dead.

Neighbors heard the couple quarreling in loud tones and said that the shots were fired immediately after White had asked the question.

White escaped in an automobile and the police are searching for him. The Whites had been separated for some time.

PONZI GIVES LIE TO DANIELS

Testifies Alleged Partner Told Counsel He Had Settled Suit for $20,000

Charles Ponzi testified before Referee Olmstead at the bankruptcy hearing that Attorney Jake Harris expected to get half of the damages collected in the $1,000,000 suit which Daniels, formerly a Hanover street furniture dealer, brought against Ponzi.

"Sawyer Harris was mad because Daniels settled with me without notifying him," testified Ponzi. "He said he expected to get an equal share of the money obtained from the suit. Harris said to me: 'We ought to get a quarter of a million dollars at least in agreeing to settle a million dollar suit.' He had an argument with me and also with Daniels for not notifying him before he talked settlement with me.

"Daniels told Attorney Harris that I had only given him $20,000 to settle the suit when I had given him $40,000 in cash and a certified check for $40,000. Attorney Harris got as fees on the spot $8,500 from Daniels and $5,000 in cash from me.

"I had the paying teller give him the cash at the Cosmopolitan Trust Co. The only offer I made to Daniels at the Hanover Trust Co. was $30,000 and he accepted and signed the release on attachments on my accounts at several banks and he said he wanted me to sign a paper for him, too, and I did."

Daniels declined to answer a question which Referee Olmstead said was pertinent as to what he had done with the money given him by Ponzi, causing Referee Olmstead to remark that he would report the matter to Judge Morton who had authority to

HUGE CROWD AT BROCKTON FAIR

"Children's Day" Opens Big Classic With Thousands of Young Folk in Attendance

The Brockton Fair, New England's outdoor classic, opened today for a four-day run with a record attendance and the Fall weather. This was "Children's Day." The boys and girls trooped to the fair grounds in thousands and were admitted free.

In addition, the management looked for a paid attendance of 40,000. It is the forty-seventh annual show of the Brockton Agricultural Society and the biggest ever staged.

The first part of the program was devoted to the children. In the trial horse exhibition by Boy Scouts and folk dancing by 300 school children. There were three vaudeville stages in continuous action. The professional entertainers numbered 100. The automobile, dog, cattle and poultry shows opened at 10 a. m. Judging of cattle and draft horses began at this hour.

The horse show got under way in the afternoon, with the largest list of entries on record. Miss Eleanora Sears of Boston and Elliot Hanley of Providence did not enter. Miss Sears will be on exhibition at the Chicago horse show.

The fair is being policed by 300 officers and 50 state troopers. Attraction this year is the show by seven of Brockton's prettiest girls who dressed all in bathing suits in footwear on an elevated platform 300 feet in length. In the exhibition hall are forty-one industrial booths. Space exhibiting the product of the Brockton manufacturers.

On Governor's Day Governor Coolidge and staff will be guests. The governor will be measured for a pair of shoes, and they will be completed as he watches the process. He will wear them away, according to the press agent.

RHODE ISLAND COMPANY REPORT SHOWS DEFICIT

Providence, Oct. 5.—The report by the Rhode Island company of its financial condition for the eight months ending August 31, 1920, as compared with a like period in 1919, was filed with the Public Utilities Commission today. It shows a deficit during the first eight months of the year of $1,213,287.86. The total net income for the eight months in 1920 was $915,275.36, against expenditures of $2,128,563.22. The passenger earnings for the month of August in this year show an increase of $281,388.99 over last year, while freight earnings fell off $111,310.91, and there were 273,840.26 more car miles run in August than in August, 1919. Receipts per car per day have increased $15.64 over August 1919.

$1,782,276,000 LOST BY FOOD PRODUCERS

Washington, Oct. 5—Reduction in food costs between July 1 and September 1 will bring a loss of $1,782,276,000 to the producers, says George P. Hampton, managing director of the Farmers' National Council. "The national policy is involved in this situation and it would be cowardly as well as stupid not to face these facts," said Hampton. "America can either give up agriculture and become a manufacturing and commercial nation—a condition to which such seeming season shows we are rapidly tending—or agriculture must be put on a paying basis. Difficulty in securing credit to hold crops is largely responsible for the slump in prices."

GAMBLING DENS WIDE OPEN IN MONTEREY

Mexico City, Oct. 5—Gamblers driven from the dives of Mexico City have gone to Monterey, which is, according to reports received here today, given indication of becoming the "Monte Carlo of the North American continent." Gambling houses run wide open in Monterey. No effort is made to curb the huge bets and varied games of chance. Travelers describe it as a wide open town like many of those on the American frontier in the days of the Californian gold rush.

NINE PLACES TO VOTE ON TWO-PLATOON SYSTEM

Voters in nine Massachusetts communities at the next State election will be asked whether they favor a two-platoon system in the local fire departments.

The places in question are Boston, Gloucester, Wakefield, Newton, Melrose, Beverly, Malden, Medford and Swampscott. Petitions, with the required number of signatures, for the placing of the question on the ballot have been presented to the office of the Secretary of State.

PROTEST AGAINST LYNN RENT ADVANCE

A general increase in rents of Lynn tenements, given as the reason for proposed increases by many properties, has caused a protest from tenants, who are unable to move on account of the scarcity of houses. A score or more tenants protested today to Mayor Creamer. Rent increases have been from $1 to $4 a week. As there is no housing commission in Lynn, Mayor Creamer is contemplating the appointment of a temporary committee to investigate complaints.

DEMOCRATS IN FINAL DRIVE

Greatest Oratorical Onset Ever Launched Gets Under Way This Week

By International News Service.

Washington, Oct. 5.—Democracy's final drive against the forces of the G. O. P., planned as one of the greatest oratorial onsets ever launched by one political party against another in the history of the country's presidential campaign is scheduled to get under way this week, according to word received by Democratic leaders here today.

President Wilson, whose strategy includes coming late on the battlefield, will lead one division of the army, issuing, at moments by him deemed favorable, pronouncements having to do with the League of Nations, between times acting as a sort of chief adviser to those called upon to defend the Treaty of Versailles.

More than 500 orators, scattered through the United States, took the hustings yesterday, and others will join each day until the balloting commences, according to reports received here from Cleveland, Ohio, in charge of this phase of Governor Cox's campaign.

One of the star speakers are now campaigning in the State of Ohio nicest. Another hundred are at work in Indiana. Others in New York and those States next week, party leaders assert, "when the fight really gets under way." Then, altogether the vital States will come later.

McADOO TO STUMP.

William G. McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury, Secretary of State Bainbridge Colby, Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, and Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels will form a "big four" of cabinet and executive members to go together they will cover the entire country.

Vice-President Marshall will invade the East, according to the Democratic program. He has already stumped the Middle West and West, and is due in Portsmouth, Ohio, next Monday.

Homer S. Cummings, former chairman of the Democratic National Committee, will make a transcontinental tour. Vice-Presidential Candidate Franklin D. Roosevelt, after his conference with Governor Cox, will continue his tour, which will take him as far east at least as far as Denver.

Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock, John Temple Graves of Georgia, and Senator to Great Britain John W. Davis, Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, Senator Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama and others are mentioned in the army of speakers who will aid in the drive.

GOVERNORS TO SPEAK.

Every Democratic Governor in the country has been pressed into service, while two days, October 14 and 15, have been proclaimed "Democratic Speakers' Day," when each Democratic county chairman is requested to provide speakers for every city, town and settlement inside his jurisdiction.

Governor Cox is now ready to commence his invasion of the East. From now until the election, precisely four weeks from today, he will not leave the East and Middle West. Leaders here admit Cox handicapped as the Democrats are by lack of funds—the total contributions not expected to go beyond $700,000—a stupendous effort is being made to get a large part of the campaigning done by the volunteer system.

Doctors Discuss Fast by Lord Mayor

The remarkable record of Terence MacSwiney, Lord Mayor of Cork, now on the fifty-fourth day of a self-imposed fast, demonstrates the fact that but little is really known as to the endurance of the human body, according to Boston physicians.

They were unanimous in stating today that the ability to fast for long periods depended entirely on the reserve forces stored up by the person fasting.

In response to inquiries made by the Boston American, they declared that forty-day fasts had been proved to be feasible without injurious results, but they warned the public against fasting without medical supervision.

"The medical history of fasting contains as many 'ifs' and 'buts' as the history of lovers. There seem to be no set rules. The laws in each case depend on the make up of the subject."

This is the general status of the ability to fast of the human body, as given by Dr. W. T. M. Gallagher of Newton, medical examiner, of Middlesex County.

SETTING A RECORD.

"Terence MacSwiney," said the doctor, "is establishing a long endurance test for fasting but is setting no record. Until within very recent years, say twenty or thirty, all doctors felt the ability of the ability of the human body to withstand prolonged fasts. Of course we have always had the Biblical records of the Sacred Fast, from the New Testament, but we have thought, many of us, that perhaps a miracle helped on the endurance of the Faster. Then, comparatively recently, we have improved that it is possible for man to fast forty days.

"That is by some men. Now, not so long ago, Dr. Fred Shattuck of Boston fasted for forty-two days and came out none the worse for the experiment. But if I tried to fast for twenty-two hours I would be very much the worse for the experiment. The reason Dr. Shattuck withstood the test so well was that he was in excellent physical condition and had stored up vitality to use in places of the food he was doing without.

"The whole principle of endurance in a fast is the same principle as that of the hibernating bear. The human faster is not really going without sustenance. He is merely using sustenance stored up previously, from times when its food sufficed for nourishment and then for extra flesh building."

This is the way the Nutrition Department of the State Board of Health explains long fasts, forty and fifty days, as that of MacSwiney. "The sugars and the starches," was the statement given out, "build energy in the human body. When taken in excess, and properly digested, they add to bodily bulk. In times of fast, the body, not starving, simply draws on this reserve force, and is nourished even though no food passes the patient's lips.

"The whole question of fasting is coming to seem not so deadly as it did a while back. The cases are common enough of the man or the woman who, keen on the rush building, skips dates without luncheon to keep thin. Such persons rely on mere starving, at luncheon. They are simply calling on their reserve forces.

FEEDING A FASTER.

"It is pretty safe to say that no hunger striker, nor any faster, could be fed without his knowledge. It would be a pretty difficult thing to do. In conscious stage, too, as we are learning more and more, the physical condition of the body of a fast, faster, perfect rest in the period of the fast, and a decent reserve of flesh to start with, makes a convalescent able to do without food for a long period. But remember this about starving for days and days and faster. Don't do it. No fast, of duration beyond seeing what normal or two, should be attempted, except under a physician's care."

Dr. Walter Champion of the State Department of Health called attention to the experiments conducted at the Carnegie Nutrition Laboratory.

"At this institute," said he, "doctors volunteering to fast, for the purpose of nutrition experiments, have proved that a forty-day fast is quite possible without evil results."

MALONE SCORES WILSON'S STAND

Decries His "Incredible Misconception" of League Opponents

New York, Oct. 5.—Decrying President Wilson's "incredible misconception" of the patriotism and statesmanship of the opponents of the League of Nations, Dudley Field Malone, former collector of the port of New York and staunch supporter of the administration, in a letter to the President today declared that "the organized America's great moral program under the pressure of the "reactionary diplomacy of England and France."

"There are other students of American history beside yourself, who are astounded at the traditional policy of this country toward freedom and justice in the world," he wrote, "and it requires no unusual sight to know that if Washington and Lincoln and Woodrow Wilson were together they will cover the entire country.

"The Republicans will certainly carry all of the New England States, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Kentucky, Wisconsin and Illinois, and have a splendid chance to carry Tennessee and North Carolina," he said. They will carry everything west of the Mississippi River except Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas. Even Texas has become a fighting ground. Watch for the Republicans in Texas."

HAYS SEES LANDSLIDE FOR G. O. P. IN NOVEMBER

Chicago, Oct. 4.—A Republican landslide in November is prediction of Will H. Hays, national Republican chairman.

"The Republicans will certainly carry all of the New England States, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Kentucky, Wisconsin and Illinois, and have a splendid chance to carry Tennessee and North Carolina," he said. They will carry everything west of the Mississippi River except Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas. Even Texas has become a fighting ground. Watch for the Republicans in Texas."

40,000,000 Starving; China Seeks U. S. Aid

By International News Service.

Pekin, Oct. 5.—Between 30,000,000 and 40,000,000 Chinese, who are dying at the rate of more than 1,000 a day from starvation, are turning their eyes to the United States for aid. Hope was expressed here today that President Wilson would issue an appeal to the American people to help the famine sufferers.

American missionaries are giving such aid as they can, but estimated that 200,000,000 will be needed to keep hundreds of thousand of Chinese from death during the coming Winter.

Suicides have become so common that the local authorities have lost count and cannot compute them.

BORAH DENIES WITHDRAWAL

"Want to See You Win," He Wires to Harding, "and League Scheme Defeated"

By InterNational News Service

Marion, O., Oct. 5.—Senator Warren G. Harding has received personal assurance from Senator William E. Borah, one of the peace treaty "irreconcilables," that the latter has not withdrawn from active participation in the campaign as widely reported.

Senator Harding today made public a telegram received from the Idaho Senator in which he said he would continue to work for Harding's election and the "defeat in this "own way."

The telegram to Senator Harding said:

"In view of reports I wish you to know that my speeches in future will be along the same lines as at Dayton and in the Senate. I want to see you win, and I want to see the League scheme defeated. In my own way I shall devote my time to the achievement of both propositions.

"WILLIAM E. BORAH."

Senator Borah will speak in New Hampshire on Oct. 9, and a schedule arranged by Colonel Thomas W. Miller, chairman of the committee of speakers' bureau, and Senator Moses. Senator Borah also expects to campaign for Senator Watson, in Indiana; Senator Poindexter, in Ohio, who is seeking Senator Harding's place in the senate, and Senator Wadsworth, in New York, and O. E. Weller, Senatorial candidate in Maryland.

Borah Declares Against Any League Compromise

Danbury, Ct., Oct. 5.—Senator William S. Borah of Idaho issued a virtual challenge to Senator Warren G. Harding, Republican presidential candidate, to take a positive position on the League of Nations when he pledged the party, "regardless of the views of particular individuals," to a complete disavowal of such an association. The challenge was made in a speech at a mass meeting here in the interests of the candidacy of Senator Brandegee from this State.

Senator Borah, who is to speak again this week in New Haven and Bridgeport, said in part:

"Let us not be confused by terms, nor mistaken about principles. Let us consider rather results and the end to be attained and not waste time debating over what particular route we shall reach that goal. If compromise leads to the entry of us into the league without compromise, then we certainly want no compromise.

WARNINGS ARE IN VAIN.

"The real question which this whole league scheme presents to the average citizen is this: Shall we go into Europe and take upon ourselves as a people and as a part of our burdens and obligations the racial conflicts, the racial conflicts and the imperialistic schemes of the Old World or shall we keep out? That is the plain, fundamental proposition before you.

"All these schemes lead to but one destination—Europe. Whether you believe it with or without reservations, it all leads to Europe and joins your and your children, and your children's children to the destinies, the entanglements, their standards of living, their conceptions of government, their wars and their diplomacy. Intrigue, just now tormenting Europe as it has for three hundred years.

"Whether you call the scheme a league, a concert of powers, an alliance or association, every one will lead you to Europe and place upon the already bended backs of the American taxpayers the schemes of exploitation and of waste, and upon the shoulders of the American youth, the military burdens which must eventually grow out of this scheme.

INCUR ALL OBLIGATIONS.

"This is the reason why Lloyd George is so anxious for us to come in on our own terms. This is the reason why Viscount Grey is willing for us to lay down our own method, gratify our own vanity as to the method of going in. For they understand, and have so declared, that once in, the method of getting in is wholly immaterial. Once there, we must assume all the obligations and deal with all the situations which our presence there inevitably incurs."

INJURED BY OMNIBUS, MAN SUES FOR $15,000

Providence, Oct. 5.—A suit for $15,000 was filed in the Superior Court against the Aetna Casualty Company of Hartford by Samuel O. Sparks of Bristol, who alleges that the defendant company was surety on the Rhode Island Omnibus Company's bond at the time of an accident on December 8, 1919. He was standing on the sidewalk of Exchange place and one of the busses was halted with the wheels against the curb. Suddenly the bus backed and he was crushed, he alleges, between the body of the bus and the curb, inflicting serious and permanent injuries.

ARLINGTON WANTS BETTER MAIL SERVICE

The Arlington Board of Trade will hold a meeting at Grand Army Hall this evening, at which there will be a discussion on increased postal facilities and a memorial community building for Arlington. Congressman Frederick W. Dallinger will speak on the first-named subject and Justice Hollis R. Bulkley of Boston will talk on the community building project.

DORCHESTER BOY IS INJURED BY TRUCK

John DeCourcey, fourteen years old, of East street, Dorchester, was probably fatally injured by an automobile truck on Dorchester avenue, Fields Corner. The truck was owned by the Arthur Hanan Company and driven by Clyde L. Carter of Peacevale road, Dorchester. Young DeCourcey was removed to the City Hospital, where it was feared he had concussion of the brain.

FIRST PHOTOGRAPHS SHOWING SACKING OF 'IRELAND'S LOUVAIN'

In this photograph is shown a party of refugees preparing to leave Balbriggan after the "night of terror" September 21, during which British Auxiliaries, called "Black and Tans," sacked and burned the town as a reprisal for the shooting of two police officers there. One of the ruined buildings may be seen in the background.

During the night several companies of the British Auxiliary forces in Ireland rode into Balbriggan, which is twenty-two miles from Dublin. The photo shows Durham public house in Balbriggan burned during the raid. Mr. Durham was a leading Sinn Feiner of the town.

A factory in Balbriggan burned by British "Black and Tans." Many buildings in the town were burned down and thousands were made homeless in the reprisals for the killing of two policemen of Balbriggan. Two civilians were killed by the "Black and Tans." Many people fled from the town, fearing further reprisals. The soldiers used rifles and hand grenades as well as the torch.

RAIDS RENEWED IN DUBLIN BY BRITISH SOLDIERY

Dublin, Oct. 5.—A number of military raids against property of Sinn Feiners were carried out here early today. The homes of Dr. Kathleen Lynn and Mrs. Sheehy Skeffington at Rathmines, a suburb, were raided.

Two civilians were reported to have been killed by troops at Cullen and Tipperary for refusing to obey sentries' orders to halt.

Widespread damage was done at Ballinagare in a "Black and Tan" police raid in reprisal for an ineffectual attack upon the French park barracks.

Asquith Demands Home Rule for Ireland

London, Oct. 5.—Former Premier Asquith, in a letter to the Times, calls upon Great Britain to give Ireland her independence.

"I am not alarmed by the spectre of an Irish republic," said the former Premier. "Men do not long fight for phrases, but for realities.

"The aggressive but impotent policy towards Ireland has reached a fitting climax in an unexampled campaign for which the government must bear the responsibility of military and police reprisals. Two conditions govern and limit the solution:

"1—The Irish should be made to believe that, so far as Great Britain is concerned, what is offered comes from an honest and responsible source.

"2—We should, after making allowance for the provisional abstention of a genuine local minority, meet and satisfy Irish aspirations.

"Nothing will fulfil the second clause but the bestowal of a status of autonomous dominion rule in the fullest and widest sense."

Mr. Asquith points out that none of the overseas British dominions claims the right of a separate foreign policy. He believes that Ireland would not beggar herself by attempting to create a navy, but that she should have the power to raise and maintain local defence forces and also should be granted fiscal independence. He asks those who object on the ground that such concessions would be humiliating, "What is your alternative? The reconquering of Ireland will never be sanctioned by the will and conscience of the British people."

The ex-Premier declares that the urgency of the Irish situation demands an immediate solution and calls for an administration "backed by the power of the sympathetic acquiescence of the Irish people."

"It pleases him and doesn't hurt us," was the headline used by the Daily Express today upon an American dispatch which quoted Governor James M. Cox, the Democratic presidential nominee, as saying that Ireland probably would get her freedom. The Daily Express characterized it as "election talk."

PLAN TO EXTEND CABLE LINES

An International System, With Low Rates, Is Ambition of United States

Washington, Oct. 5.—A vast international cable system, operated at rates proportionate to those of the International Postal Union, is the ultimate hope and aim of the United States, it was learned at a meeting preliminary to the meeting of the International Communications Congress.

At this meeting, which was held at the State Department, Postmaster-General Burleson, Under Secretary of State Davis, and Walter S. Rogers, American delegates to the congress, discussed the necessity for co-ordinating and simplifying the cable services between the United States and foreign countries with representatives of various newspapers and news associations.

It was agreed that a memorandum containing suggestions should be drawn and submitted to the Congress.

It developed during the meeting that the British government already has under consideration the establishment of a press cable service to her remotest dominions at a rate not higher than two cents per word. As such a service necessarily includes Canada, it is understood that Great Britain will not object to American newspapers participating in that rate.

The American government is particularly anxious to improve communications with South America and the Far East where it has been found additional commercial business invariably follows an adequate flow of cable traffic. At present Japan controls cables between the Island of Yap and the Asiatic coast.

Among those invited to be present were M. Koenigsberg, George T. Hargreaves and T. V. Ranck of the Universal Service; Marlin E. Pew and Philip Simms of the International News Service; Kent Cooper of the Associated Press; Carter Field of the New York Tribune; A. M. Jamison, Central News, and John Curtin, Chicago Tribune.

LYNN FORTUNE TELLER AGREES TO RETURN $1,800

Lawrence, Oct. 5.—Daisy Stanley, a gypsy fortune teller of Lynn, was placed on probation in Superior Criminal Court here after she had agreed to pay back immediately $1,800 out of $3,700, which she was charged with obtaining from Mrs. Elizabeth Lamprey, late of Lynn. The latter had consulted the fortune teller, who is said to have used unique methods of "back blessing," in which the money was taken from the woman, who carried it in a bag.

U. S. SHIP DEAL STIRS FRANCE

Objects to American Alliances With Lines Running to German Ports

Washington, Oct. 5.—Not only has the Shipping Board held up the proposed contract between the United States Mail Steamship Company and the North German Lloyd line, but France has made objections to both the shipping Board and the State Department against the Harriman contract with the Hamburg-American line.

The latter protest is based upon the allegation that the Hamburg-American contract gives Germany an unfair advantage, in that she is permitted to use American ships for the establishment of her commerce until she is able to provide ships of her own. Such a contract, France maintains, is unfair discrimination, and adds that if the United States proposed to discriminate against anybody it ought not be to against her former allies.

It is also understood that Great Britain made objection to the North German Lloyd as well as to the Hamburg-American contract.

In answer it was maintained by the United States, first, that the Hamburg-American contract is not discriminatory.

Second, that any help this country is able to give Germany will be for the benefit of all Europe, for the reason that until Germany recovers she will not be able to pay her indemnity, for which France, of all nations, is clamoring the loudest.

TWO MORE SQUARES NAMED AFTER HEROES

Additional hero squares named by the City Council at its last meeting are as follows: The junction of Austin, Washington, Chapman and Lynde streets, Charlestown, to be known as Arthur A. Hartnett square; the junction of Harvard School and Thane streets, to be known as Scott C. Campbell square.

Girl's Pink Pajamas Pittered, She Reports

The despicable thief who yesterday visited No. 97 St. Stephen street, was a "lowlife" so far lost to every sense of shame and decency that he stole Miss Ruth Purdy's last suit of pajamas this side of the laundry. As a result, bereft of her customary nightlies, Miss Purdy passed a night of horror.

Ruth, twenty-three and as pretty as the front cover of a magazine, went to police headquarters today to report her loss.

"In sixteen, seventeen and eighteen," she said, "I was on the stage. Now I am a model. I was posing yesterday when thieves visited my flat and stole $600 worth of jewelry and clothing. Among other things they took a pair of cuff links which had been in our family more than 100 years."

Miss Purdy pleaded with the Headquarters' reporters not to say much about the affair in the newspapers. "If there is anything I abhor," she said, "it is publicity. If I should see anything about this in big black headlines across the top of the front page I believe I should die."

So the reporters promised to keep the story "down," and here you are. The pajamas were pink.

PARENTS FIND BABY DROWNED IN BUCKET

Lowell, Vt., Oct. 5.—The year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Hercule Catnole was drowned in a pail of water in the home of his parents here. The parents were horrified to find the youngster head down in a pail. Efforts to resuscitate the child proved futile.

ORANGE GIRL KILLED ON WAY TO SCHOOL

Orange, Oct. 5.—Helen Davis, aged six, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Davis of West Main street, was instantly killed while on her way to school when she was struck by an automobile driven by Frank McGinley of Gardner, a traveling salesman. He was held blameless.

OFFERS SUGAR AT 12 1-2 CENTS

Revere Refining Company Abandons Fight and Cuts Under Rivals' Price

Abandoning its losing fight to keep sugar prices up, the Revere Sugar Refining Company today began unloading its huge stores of the refined product at 12½ cents a pound, carload lots.

The list is slightly lower that the market price.

The action of the Revere concern was the first sign of weakening on the part of either of the two big Boston refineries, which have fought to the last ditch against the downward trend in prices.

It was the first time in many months that the Revere company met the prices of its competitors, to say nothing of going below them.

Only one other refinery in the country, the Federal Refining Company of New York, was today meeting the quotation of 12½ cents.

While other refiners were not meeting the quotations of the Revere refinery, jobbers dealing in "second-hand" sugars were shading those prices in some quarters. These jobbers were mostly men with small capital who were trying to get out of a falling market at any sacrifice.

Raw sugar sold "on the spot" in New York today for 7½ cents and there was a downward tendency in this market.

WOMAN SLASHED BY SUITOR

Police Trap 59-Year-Old Wooer in Revere Following Attack at Wilmington

Bearing a striking resemblance to photographs of Leo Hindenburg, Honeyboy Angelosi, fifty-nine years old, a grocer of No. 219 Revere street, Revere, was arraigned today in Woburn district court on two complaints charging an attack on Mrs. Rose Corollo, thirty-five years old, of No. 29 Utah street, East Boston, with intent to kill. He was held in $20,000 bail for examination on next Wednesday.

The alleged attack took place yesterday in Wilmington. Mrs. Corollo is a patient in Chandler Memorial Hospital, Woburn. Her condition is said to be critical. Angelosi's examination was deferred to await the result of the woman's injuries.

Angelosi, according to the police, fired four shots at the enemy Italian woman and when they failed to take effect drew a razor and slashed her across the face, neck and breast. Refusal of the woman to accept her aged suitor's attentions is given by the police as the motive for the attack.

Following the attack Mrs. Corello ran from the house with blood streaming from her wounds. She screamed to attract the attention of her nearest neighbor, Joseph Casalette, who brought her into his home and then sought Angelosi. The latter, after firing several shots at his pursuer, fled in the direction of the woods.

Posses combed the woods in the vicinity but without result. Later Woburn police were sent to Revere and Angelosi was caught in his home.

QUINCY COUNCILLOR SPURNS JUNKET PLAN

A junket to New York was spurned by Councillor John F. Scott of the Quincy City Council, who suggested the money be used for repairing city streets. The trip was to attend a moving picture conference, called to help curb production of questionable pictures.

SUSPECT IS KEPT ON THE GRILL

Government Agents Seek Source of Explosives, and Data on 'Reds'

By International News Service.

Pittsburgh, Oct. 5.—While Federal authorities have been unable to connect Florean Zelenska directly with the Wall street bomb blast, he is being continuously grilled in an effort to throw light upon extremist activities, particularly the source from which malcontents secured explosives.

Zelenska is held in the custody of Department of Justice agents, and it was declared that it may be some time before they turn him over to the New York police, who have made request for him.

The pinochle immediately after his arrest Sunday night on the charge of having dynamite in his possession aroused suspicions which indicated that a dangerous man, but belief is growing in some quarters that he may prove a crank or notoriety seeker.

Detectives are trying to find the room where Zelenska is said to have purchased a trunk in which he said he planned to ship explosives to Brooklyn. The purchase was made on a previous visit to this city.

Flynn Doubts Zelenska Knew About Explosion

New York, Oct. 5.—The possibility of solving the Wall street bomb explosion by the arrest of Florean Zelenska at Pittsburgh dwindled almost to the vanishing point today, according to declarations by officials here.

William J. Flynn, chief of the bureau of investigation of the Department of Justice, admitted that he believes that Zelenska knows nothing of a definite nature about the Wall street blast.

"Men are still investigating but so far have not developed anything to connect Zelenska with the alleged arrest explosion," said Chief Flynn.

LABOR MARKET NORMAL AGAIN

More Applicants for All Kinds of Jobs This Year Than in 1919

Labor conditions are getting back to normal and employers are finding it quite difficult in obtaining help, according to statistics prepared by the Knowland street state employment office.

While there were more positions open in August and September than ever before, there were also a much larger percentage of applicants for them. Last years there were always more jobs than applicants. This year the reverse is true.

The fact that the figures for September this year are higher than for September last year is due to heavy demands for shipbuilders at the Fore River Yards. A three-years record was made at this office in registrations for the increased call for ship workers, and for one month the last year at this time there was little demand for help from the shipyards.

Last month there were 282 jobs open for ship riveters, caulkers and allied trades, and strangely enough there were just 282 applicants.

The changing labor conditions are clearly seen in the rush of young men and women to take up domestic and personal service positions that were scorned when munition shops were attracting high wages.

In September, 1919, for instance, there were 48 calls for domestics, but only 41 applied for such jobs. This September, however, there were only 9 jobs open and 34 ready to take them. For kitchen and pantry work both male and female there were 497 jobs to fill in September, last year. This September there were only 279.

Last year it was difficult to obtain bank clerks, even. Last September only 174 applied for 227 positions. This September there were 105 positions open and 140 applicants. There are more here and also looking for work now than there were a year ago. As in the other trades and callings, there were more males than applicants last Fall. Today there are more applicants than jobs. Employers are getting better material, they report, but are starting the young workers at a dollar or so a week less than they were a few months ago.

REV. CHARLES F. AKED TELLS WHY IRELAND MUST BE FREE

PASTOR MAKES PLEA TO END STRIFE ON ISLAND

United States must not separate farther from each other. Great Britain and the United States must come together more closely in bonds of brotherhood. I am not speaking of governmental organizations. I am not proposing, as the Frenchmen say, to drink the sea. I am not proposing to drain the Atlantic dry, but in spirit, in feeling, in friendship, in brotherhood the peace and prosperity of mankind demand that we, who speak one tongue over all the earth, shall come closer together. A quarrel of the United States and Great Britain would be a great disaster. I repeat: It is not good for America, for Great Britain, or for the world that there should be a reservoir of ill-feeling in this country fed by streams of Irish resentment.

And then if any reality attaches to all we have been saying during the last few years about liberty and self-determination, self-government by all peoples, and democracy over all the earth, if any reality attaches to those professions of ours, we cannot regard with indifference the question of Ireland. I am no advocate of the policy of "rubbing it in." That does not seem to me a Christian grace and I do not want to be thought guilty of an attempt to "rub in" your talk about self-determination. I do not want to insist upon professions made in hot blood that none of you believed at the time, that you only professed to believe in because it was proper that your blood should be hot! At the same we cannot all of us swallow everything we have been saying for the last three years. Two years and a half ago there was one phrase on every tongue, a phrase about making the world safe for democracy. Two years and a half ago—two years ago—if any man in a patriotic assembly had scoffed at that phrase he would have been invited to leave the room; and "invited" is not exactly the word with which you would describe the performance. He would have been propelled from behind—not politely—and the method of propulsion would have been painfully suggestive of a kick.

But today no educated man or woman could use that phrase in a meeting of educated men and women except to scoff at it. And I do not want to scoff at it, but I am bound to say it to you because I want to read to you the whole of the sentence in which the one phrase occurred. It was, as you know, in the address of President Woodrow Wilson to Congress, asking Congress to declare a state of war existed between the United States and the German Empire. It was in that world-famous address that he said:

URGES MINISTRY OF CONCILIATION

"We shall fight for the ultimate peace of the world and for the liberty of its peoples, the German peoples included; for the rights of nations, great and small, and the privilege of men everywhere to choose their way of life and obedience. The world must be made safe for democracy. Its peace must be planted upon the trusted foundations of political liberty."

I repeat, I do not want to rub it in, but when the Peace Congress assembled at Versailles and the honor of opening the Congress was conferred upon the President of the United States, January 25, 1919, he said: "We are here to say that every people in the world shall choose its own masters and govern its own destinies, not as we wish, but as they wish." I am not going to hold every one of you to those professions, but at the same time, if there is any reality at all in the idea of self-determination, self-government and the right of men and women everywhere to choose their way of life and obedience, if there is any reality in it at all, I say to you we cannot remain indifferent to the demand of the Irish people for freedom and self-government.

My point is this—and I am speaking as a Christian minister. To us has been entrusted, as to the Apostle Paul, a ministry of reconciliation. I am a Minister of Christ. Five times did Paul in his Second Letter to the Corinthians, in the fifth chapter, five times over in two verses, speak of the ministry of reconciliation. "To us," he says, "has been committed this ministry of reconciliation." When I finished my sixteen years of ministry in Liverpool, in my last sermon I preached from this text. I called Liverpool to witness that for sixteen years I tried to discharge the ministry of reconciliation. My first sermon as pastor of the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church in New York, when I came to this country in 1913, was from this text, and I declared I came to America for the purpose of trying to discharge that ministry of reconciliation.

Well, I do not seem to have succeeded very well! But I am, I hope, by the grace of God, not likely now to repudiate that to which I committed myself when I was young and strong. Then I believed that to us has been committed the ministry of reconciliation, and I hope, by the grace of God, that I shall go on preaching this until I preach no more.

MUST KNOW NATION'S HISTORY

In this spirit I wish you to consider the question of Ireland. You cannot understand this Irish question without some knowledge of British and Irish history. It is utterly impossible. Ireland is a conquered country. I was in Quincy, Ill., two or three years ago. I was there for Armenia. It was just at the time when the British Government was proposing to conscript Irishmen for the British Army, and my host said they ought to fight for Great Britain. And I said: "Now you interest me very much indeed. I wish you would explain that to me. You think the Armenians ought to fight for the Turkish Empire?" He said: "Why, no, of course not." "Why not?" I asked; "Armenia is just as much a part of the Turkish Empire as Ireland is a part of the British Empire. Armenia has been conquered by Turkey. Ireland has been conquered by Great Britain. The Armenians are not Turks, and the Irish are not English. Ireland was brought into the British Empire precisely as Armenia was brought into the Turkish Empire. Would it be right to make Armenia fight for the Turkish Empire? If not, why is it right to make the Irish fight for the British Empire?" "Well, the Irish speak the English tongue." "So do the Armenians speak the Turkish tongue." "Well, Ireland is part of Great Britain." "Not so much a part as Armenia is part of Turkey. Ireland is at least separated from the British Isles by a strip of sea and Armenia is separated from the rest of Turkey by nothing. What is the difference?" There is absolutely no difference in the world. Ireland is a conquered country. The school boy said that the conquest of Ireland began in the year 1170 and has been going on ever since. The first misfortune of Ireland is that she was conquered by England, and the second misfortune is that she was not conquered enough. Now that may be an Irish way of putting an Irish fact, but it is literally true. Ireland was conquered by England, but she was not conquered enough. She was conquered enough to overthrow Irish culture. She was not conquered enough to establish English civilization. She was conquered enough to overthrow Irish rule and Irish law. She was not conquered enough to establish English law and English rule. Representatives of the English aristocracy would be given vast estates in Ireland, and when in the course of generations their descendants would become as the Irish, and they would revolt, or partly revolt, from the domination of the English crown and English government, then there would be strife between the conqueror and the conquered, and the last state of those people was worse than the first. Seven hundred years of oppression are in this story, seven hundred years of plunder, of agony, of hunger, of famine artificially created and artificially perpetuated, of endless crimes committed within the law and hideous crimes without any pretense of law; of high-handed despotism of single individuals and of high handed despotism of governments. Don't you believe that these wrongs are ended. They are not. The condition of Ireland today is appalling. The number of tanks, the numbered of armored cars, the number of warships at this present moment—and I am speaking to you of Ireland today—Ireland is in a state of siege. I have seen the statement, made on reliable authority, that there are now more than 200,000 British troops in Ireland holding Ireland down. Ireland is still a conquered country. Ireland is still held by military force. Now if there is any English Liberal here he knows the name of Childers. If there is any man here who in England was a Conservative, he knows that among his most honorable opponent in days gone by was Childers, a member of Gladstone's Cabinet. His son is a man of reputation and honor, and he has been in Ireland and just now he is writing a series of articles in the London Daily News. Since the Easter Rebellion of 1916 he declares that British soldiers have entered not fewer than 20,000 homes by violence; that they have outraged men and women; that is the testimony of Mr. Childers today; and I tell you again Ireland is held down by tank and armored car, by airship and threatened bomb.

PAST TERRIBLE RELIGIOUS STRIFE

We have to take into account that on top of feudal oppression continued through centuries, was imposed a terrible religious strife. Ireland, like all other countries for hundreds of years up to the time of the Reformation, was Roman Catholic. The Protestant Reformation in England began officially in the time of Henry VIII. and was consummated in the time of Queen Elizabeth. In Ireland under English rule, there was the same official reformation. What had been Catholic churches became Protestant churches by law. Catholics were driven out. There was an Irish Parliament then, an Irish Parliament subordinate to the British Crown." A Catholic could not be a member of Parliament and he could not vote in Parliamentary elections. A Catholic could not be a lawyer, and he could not be a physician. He could not hold any office, civil or military. He could not possess arms. He could not teach a school in public or in private, not even in his own home. He could not own a horse worth more than five pounds sterling—twenty-five dollars—and the enforcement of this particular law was made easy by enacting that any Protestant could go upon the property of any Catholic and bring away any horse he fancied by the simple expedient of leaving five pounds there. Bishops were forbidden to ordain priests, and it was forbidden for anybody to go outside Ireland to be ordained in another country, the idea being to stamp out the priesthood entirely. The churches, as I have said, were turned over to the Reformed faith, the faith reformed by act of Parliament. Protestant clergy were installed in those churches. Catholic worshippers were driven to the hillsides and then taxed to pay the salaries of the Protestant clergy in churches of which they had been robbed.

Straw Vote Indicates Strong G. O. P. Victory

The presidential weather vane, as indicated by the nation wide balloting being conducted by the Boston American, points in only one direction—toward Senator Harding.

As industrial group after industrial group come into the American office, there can be but one forecast of the presidential winds, and that is a strong Republican victory.

In previous summaries, labor groups have been shown as favoring the Ohio Senator. Today's groups include sample balloting from the big Bethlehem Steel plant at Fore River, Quincy, and other industrial marts.

HARDING LEADS AT FORE RIVER.

American representatives went into the Fore River shops and secured the votes of the workers only. Out of 103 ballots taken 65 were for Harding and 22 for Cox. Debs ran third with 10 votes.

Today also appeared the first radical group, the garment workers. But even in this group an analysis of the balloting is interesting. In the 67 ballots secured, Debs receives 50, Harding 13 and Cox only 3. Christensen, the Farm-Labor candidate, scored the lowest toll of one vote.

The garment workers represent the most radical labor group, and the Harding vote is unusually large in this occupation.

6 TO 1 FOR HARDING.

Boston plumbers lower the local ratio by giving Harding 34 and Cox 24. But the Chicago plumbers come to the rescue with a six to one majority for the Republican nominee, voting 60 for Harding, 10 for Cox, 2 for Watkins, the Prohibition candidate, and 1 for Christensen. While Debs is not in the running, so far as Chicago plumbers are concerned, the Boston plumbers give the Socialist candidates 4 votes out of 70 cast.

The percentage Harding received among the Fore River employes helped by the vote of the workers of the Sturtevant Blower Works at Hyde Park, who cast 31 votes for Senator Harding against 12 for Cox. While this is under three to one, it maintains the national percentage which the straw balloting results disclose.

CITY OFFICIAL WAITS 59 WEEKS FOR SALARY

Fifty-nine weeks is a long time to wait for a year's salary payable on a weekly basis. But Ward H. Cook, resident pathologist at Long Island Hospital, asserts in a claim filed with the City Council that he has waited that long for his $2,400 yearly honorarium, in consequence of which he asks for $3,168.30.

"The arbitrary ruling of a former superintendent," he asserts, has deprived him of the money. Dr. Charles E. Donlon, former head of the institution, is stated to have held up Cook's pay.

NAVY PLANS BIG FIELD DAY

Outdoor Sports, Carnival, Dancing and Ocean Sail in Program for Columbus Day

A big field day, with outdoor sports, a carnival, dancing in the yard armory and on the deck of the cruiser Galveston, drills, a monster band concert and trip down the harbor on the destroyer Cowell are among the events scheduled for the field day in aid of the Navy Relief Society at the Charlestown Navy Yard on Columbus Day, from 10 o'clock in the morning until 6 in the evening.

The proceeds of the field day will be used to carry on the charitable work among the wives and dependents of enlisted men who have been disabled or killed in the service. An admission fee of 25 cents to the yard will be charged. Among the free attractions in the yard will be all the ships and vessels, except the Galveston, museum, drills, games and athletic events and a band concert by the combined ship and yard bands.

There will be plenty of good navy "grub" for the hungry, and to those who have a love for mechanics the big ships will be open. The day will be crowded with varied events. To some of the attractions there will be a small fee.

Among these will be the harbor trip of the destroyer Cowell from the yard to Minot's Light, reserved seats for King Neptune's Court, an initiation of candidates in the same manner as performed on navy vessels when crossing the equator; entrance to the historic Constitution and the Mount Vernon. Shops and boats, which on other days are closed, will be open to the public.

Governor Coolidge, Mayor Peters, city officials, army and navy notables have been invited and with members of the G. A. R., Spanish War Veterans and the American Legion have signified their intention of attending.

Rear Admiral S. S. Robison, commandant at the yard, is chairman of the committee on arrangements, which includes Captains Victor A. Kimberly and A. E. Watson and Lieutenant-Commander Morton L. Deyo. Mrs. S. S. Robison, president of the local branch of the society, is at the head of the ladies' committees, which include Miss Katherine G. Crowley of the Engineering office, Miss Maude C. Borden of the Machinery Division office and Miss Lillian Dacey.

The patrons and patronesses are Mrs. Henry Howard, Mrs. George von L. Meyer, Mrs. Louis A. Coolidge, Mrs. Harold Coolidge, Mrs. Sumner Hollingsworth, Mrs. R. L. Lyman, Mrs. Francis J. Higginson, Mrs. Beekman Winthrop, Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt, Mrs. W. R. Rush, Mrs. H. W. Ogden; Mrs. C. B. Perkins, Mrs. F. H. Tappan, Mrs. William R. Thayer, Mrs. Barrett Wendell and W. C. Bailey, Henry L. Higginson, F. L. Ames and Cleveland H. Dodge.

RAILROAD REFUSES TO MEET U. S. LABOR BOARD

Washington, Oct. 5.—The Washington & Old Dominion Railway, through its attorneys, has notified the United States railroad labor board of its refusal to accept jurisdiction of the board in the altercation between the railway and its employes. The railway company will not be represented at the hearings of the labor board in Chicago today.

The trouble arose out of litigation by which employes of the railroad attempted to prevent the railroad from discharging certain employes and to enforce the reinstatement of some discharged men.

APPEAL FOR SUFFRAGE INJUNCTION DISMISSED

Washington, Oct. 5.—The Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia dismissed a petition for an injunction to prevent the indorsement of the suffrage amendment. The original petition for an injunction was filed in the lower courts in the name of Charles S. Fairchild, president of the American Constitutional League. It is expected that the question will now be taken to the United States Supreme Court.

HUNT FOR LOPES AT WORCESTER

Quincy Policeman Saw Mrs. Warner's Alleged Attacker Shortly After Crime

Seituate, Oct. 5.—The search for Rudolph Lopes, chauffeur and alleged assailant of Mrs. Estelle Tyler Warner of County Way, centered around Worcester today on the strength of information given by a Quincy policeman.

The police are also investigating the report that he left that city for either New London or New York.

The Quincy officer has definitely identified Lopes as the man who asked the way in Worcester at 4 o'clock on Sunday morning. Regarding the man as a suspicious character, the officer asked to see his license and registration. Both papers appeared to be all right. The policeman has also identified the man through pictures which have appeared in the newspapers.

Sheriff John Turner today announced his intention of questioning Lopes' family regarding his whereabouts during the past few days, believing that he spent the time hiding out at his own home. The family have lived at Harwich, several miles from Seituate, for a number of years. It was in this town that Lopes was born and brought up.

Mrs. Warner remains in a state of coma, although it has been seventy-six hours at least since the time she was attacked.

COUNCIL DELAYS ACTION ON BUYING LIBERTIES

City Treasurer Murray's plan of making money for the city by selling city of Boston bonds in which trust funds are invested and purchasing $800,000 in Liberty Bonds at prevailing market prices did not appeal to City Council members, who decided to take another week to think it over.

The councillors were more interested in learning whether the city could use these trust funds in relieving the acute shortage of houses. They learned from Corporation Counsel Hill that they could not.

HAGAN DEMANDS HOUSING ACTION

Seeks Planning Board Statement of Relief Prospect from Rent Gouging

Declaring that nothing is being done by the city to improve the housing situation, that the city council is powerless to act without the cooperation of Mayor Peters, and that rent profiteering is bound to increase, City Councillor Henry E. Hagan asked the city planning board to state what measures of relief are possible to decrease the housing shortage.

The questions submitted to the planning board through the Mayor are practically the same questions asked of the Mayor himself at a previous meeting and which he has thus far ignored. Information is sought by Councillor Hagan on the following questions.

1—To what extent does the housing shortage exist?

2—Have conditions improved or become more acute in the last six months?

3—In the absence of private capital, what, in the opinion of the City Planning Board, can the city do to relieve the situation?

DENIES CRISIS PASSED.

"I am told that a member of the Mayor's housing committee says the housing statement that the acute crisis has passed," said Councillor Hagan, explaining his questions. "The conditions are just the reverse. Thousands of people are unable to live within the confines of Boston because they can find no place to live.

"I know of one three-family house assessed for $6,500, that is renting for $210 a month. On the basis of rents it ought to be assessed for $21,000. The city of Boston, through the assessing department, has a weapon in its hands and if landlords were properly assessed the tax rate would be $18 this year instead of $24.10.

"With no new buildings being erected rent profiteering is going to increase. There is no limit to the ridiculous and exorbitant rents now being asked. In some three-family houses apartments are renting for $75. The occupants cannot afford it but they have no other place to go."

SAYS CITY CAN'T INVEST.

Corporation Counsel Hill advised the City Council that the city could not invest money in homes and that the Commonwealth of Massachusetts would have to come to the rescue of the city. He advised the councillors to urge the Boston Representatives to take suitable action.

"Of what was the Legislature thinking when it passed this act empowering the city of Boston to spend $15,000,000 to relieve the housing shortage," asked Councillor Ford of Mr. Hill.

"I should say it was thinking of passing the buck," replied the Mayor's chief spokesman and defender.

LYNN PEACE PACT ACTION IS DELAYED

When the United Shoe Workers of America and the Lynn shoe manufacturers signed the peace agreement last Saturday it was thought that immediate peace would result in the Lynn shoe situation.

However it has developed otherwise, since the Allied Shoe Workers consisting of Goodyear operators, edge setters and heel attachers, have decided that they are not yet ready to sign the agreement.

Decayed Vegetables May Run Auto

New York, Oct. 5.—Natalite, made from decayed vegetables, spoiled grain and other refuse, is to be the motive power for automobiles in the future, said A. Burlington Green, who arrived here from South American ports on the Pacific liner Orita.

Green said natalite is a compound of vegetable alcohol, ether and arsenic. It served as fuel in the war for autos, airplanes and internal combustion engines used in South Africa. Its discovery made the importation here of gasoline unnecessary.

Green asserted it would bring the price of gasoline down, as countries that have no oil wells can manufacture natalite and be independent of all importation.

Its cost to manufacture is 18 cents a gallon, Green said.

"It will not conflict with your prohibition laws. The mixture is not only nauseating to drink, but contains enough arsenic to be poisonous."

$50,000,000 IN SCHIFF ESTATE

Philanthropist Left Million to Public Institutions; $25,000 to Harvard

New York, Oct. 5.—One million, three hundred and fifty thousand dollars are left in charitable bequests in many public institutions by the will of the late Jacob Schiff, multi-millionaire and Jewish philanthropist.

The banker's estate, after the bequests are made, is divided equally between Mortimer Schiff and Frieda Warburg, the testator's son and daughter.

Among the charitable bequests made are: Harvard College, $25,000; Israelitisch Weisenanstalt, Frankfort-on-the-Main, Germany, $25,000; Dropsie Normal Institute, $10,000, and the Federation for the support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies of the City of New York, $500,000, and the Hebrew Union college, Cincinnati, $100,000.

Financial men today estimated the Schiff estate to be more than $50,000,000, but it could not be learned exactly how much he had left.

Others to be named and employes were remembered in a separate list not filed with the will, according to a statement of the attorneys of the executors.

The statement said that as Mrs. Schiff, the widow, had been amply provided for no provisions was made in her behalf in the will.

HARDING ODDS DROP LITTLE IN NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 5.—Odds on Senator Harding to be elected dropped somewhat in the Wall Street betting yesterday, receding from five to one to four to one. The change in sentiment is said to be due to President Wilson's statement on the League of Nations, a bet of eight to five that Harding would carry this by 30,000 was offered.

FIND $10,000 IN GEMS HIDDEN UNDER ROCK

White Plains, N. Y., Oct. 5.—Jewelry valued at $10,000 was found hidden under a rock near the residence of David Lake in Tarrytown, by two rabbit hunters. The gems were identified as a part of the $50,000 worth of jewels stolen from the home of Mrs. Kenneth Lake, wife of the Lake's son, nearly three months ago.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

We eat too much meat which clogs Kidneys, then the Back hurts.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the juice of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.—Advertisement.

THE DEAF HEAR

"I had been deaf for 18 years," said Mrs. Bessie Siggens, No. 12 Harvard Ave., W. Medford. Many to the writer. "I had noises, like the sound of trains arriving and departing from a railway station, in my ears," she continued. "I had been treated by local doctors, who told me nothing could be done for me, and that meant that I was sentenced to a tomb of silence for the remainder of my days. As I was still comparatively young, I did not accept the ruling of this physician. I read of the Osmo-Chemic Physicians and the great good they were doing in treating the deaf. I spoke of the matter to a neighbor, who said she had been successfully treated by the Osmo-Chemic physicians, and I thought that what had been done for her might also be done for me. So I had the Osmo-Chemic Physicians treat me, and I am so pleased at what they have done for me that I am telling everyone I come in contact with to go to the Osmo-Chemic Physicians for relief from their abnormal ailments."

The wonderful power of the X-RAY TREATMENT is proved by the fact that they are accomplishing wonderful results in cases of every description—CATARRH, DEAFNESS, BRONCHITIS, STOMACH DISEASES, NERVOUS DISORDERS, SKIN DISEASES, BIRTHMARKS, MOLES, FACIAL BLEMISHES, ETC.

Rupture Experts

—FOR—

Men, Women and Children in Boston, Mass.

Representing W. S. RICE, Adams, N. Y.

Our experts, E. C. Branch, M. D., G. C. Reid, Mrs. Reid and Mrs. Murray, will be at the Adams House, Boston, Mass., October 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9. Every ruptured man, woman and child should take advantage of this opportunity.

The Rice Method for Rupture is known the world over. You can see this method demonstrated and have a Rice Appliance fitted to you. Absolutely no charge unless you are satisfied to keep the outfit after having the appliance adjusted and you see how perfectly and comfortably it holds. No harsh, deep-pressing springs; nothing to gouge the flesh and make you sore. Can be worn night and day with positive comfort. Soft, rubber-like composition pad, any degree of pressure required.

Don't wear a truss all your life when thousands have reported cures through using the Rice Method. Why suffer the burden of rupture if there is a chance to be free from truss-wearing forever? Anyway, it will cost you nothing to come in and see my representative at the Adams House. Mrs. Reid and Mrs. Murray have separate apartments and will personally attend all lady callers. Office hours: 9 to 12 A. M., 2 to 5 P. M., Evenings 7 to 9.

Don't miss this great opportunity to see these experts on Hernia.

BANKERS FEAST ON CLAMS

Business Session of Investment Men Followed by Bake at Manchester

After a two-hour business session today, in which the problems of the investment bankers were discussed in group organizations of the association, the bankers adjourned for a trip to the North Shore.

Leaving the Copley-Plaza Hotel in automobiles they were driven to Singing Beach, at Manchester-by-the-Sea, where a big clambake was held. They were accompanied by the women attending the convention.

From Singing Beach the party went to the Essex County Club, where there was an opportunity to play golf.

BUFFET SUPPER TONIGHT.

Tonight the visitors will be entertained with a buffet supper at the Boston Athletic Association Clubhouse. After supper there will be moving pictures of the convention and reports from two committees.

In discussing living problems the bankers say that "skids are under the profiteers." Price cuts which have already been made by several of the greatest wholesale houses give sure indication that the cost of things to eat and things to wear is starting on a steady decline, which will continue many times, according to President George W. Hodges and his fellow members of the Investment Bankers' Association.

"The wholesalers of New York," Mr. Hodges says, "are considerably in advance of the retailers in abandoning high prices, but their leadership makes certain the eventual slump of the H. C. L. all over the country."

WAGE EARNER INVESTING.

Americans everywhere, the bankers say, are showing an increased tendency to put their money to work. The interest of the public in the purchase of securities is growing as information of reliable investments becomes more generally spread. The recognition by the wage earners of the value of the dollar as an ally in the fight for a comfortable living means less reckless spending and an automatic check on the profiteer.

War extravagance is nearly over, according to investment men, and not only individuals but whole communities are ceasing to be borrowers and are becoming investors.

PROSPERITY IN SIGHT.

The future to which President Hodges and his associates look confidently forward is one of slowly growing but securely founded prosperity. "Neither amateur Ponzis nor New York terrorists," Mr. Hodges declares, "can worry the men who are putting their money in dependable securities."

"North Carolina," declared C. M. Henderson of the Southern Securities Company of Greensboro, N. C., "has frequently been victimized by get-rich-quick manipulators, and the losses suffered by the State have in times past restricted successful security sales. At present, however, after a season of record crops, we find that the investment business is better than ever before. We seem to be getting away from our habit of looking for outside capital."

OHIO BUSINESS GOOD.

Ohio business is already good and will be steadily better with the coming Republican administration, according to H. C. Zwetsch, vice-president of the A. B. Leach Company of Cleveland.

Detroit citizens are chiefly investors in Detroit business, according to Charles H. Hull of the Dansard, Hull, Bumpus Company of Detroit.

Anticipating trouble in supplying money during the present season has been safely avoided in Minneapolis, according to R. L. Hoeter of the Drake Ballard Company of that city. The valiant support of the country banks, he said, helped save the situation.

In spite of having recently returned from Alaska, which he found to be a land of low prices and rigorous prohibition, Herbert P. Wright of H. P. Wright Investment Company of Kansas City, declares Missouri to be coming into a deserved prosperity which he feels justifies the honest pride of all her citizens. The farmer of his district, he says, are just emerging from a long period of dependence on outside capital and are now turning their attention to investment possibilities.

Among the most recent of the converts to investment, instead of borrowing, are the citizens of Salt Lake City and the vicinity, according to Gleed Miller of the Home Investment & Savings Company of Salt Lake City. Mine owners and agriculturists are entering the investment business cautiously, he says, but stock sales are steadily growing, and the future of the market seems assured.

CERTAIN ALIENS' WIVES MAY VOTE

Commission Rules Women Who Married Prior to March 7, 1907, May Cast Ballot

The Massachusetts Ballot Law Commission has ruled that a woman who married an alien previous to March 7, 1907, is qualified as a voter. This decision may have an important effect upon the coming State elections.

The ruling was made during the hearing of the contested nomination of Albert D. Wadleigh of Merrimac, who defeated Senator Arthur L. Nason of Bradford for the Republican Senatorial nomination in the primaries.

The question hinged on four ballots, two of which were cast by American-born women who were married to British subjects. It was alleged a third ballot contained identification marks and a fourth ballot was cast by a Democrat.

The two women whose ballots were contested were Mrs. Ellen N. Murphy of Merrimac, who married George W. J. Murphy, a subject of Great Britain, eleven years ago, and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Mary I. Murphy, married in 1881, to John Murphy of Merrimac, a subject of Great Britain.

Mrs. Mary I. Murphy registered to vote in the Merrimac school elections in 1914. Wadleigh's counsel, Attorney Fred H. Tilton, brought to the commission's attention a phase of the citizenship law passed by Congress, March 7, 1907, which declared, in substance, that a woman who marries takes the citizenship of her husband. The law is not retroactive.

After a conference between Chairman Cunningham and Commissioners Thomas M. Vinson and F. W. Estey the board ruled that a woman, unless there was removal to another country, who had married a foreigner previous to the passing of the law by Congress was qualified to vote and Mrs. Mary I. Murphy's ballot was a legal one.

TWO SOMERVILLE MEN FACE ROBBERY CHARGE

William Crowley of No. 1984 Somerville avenue and William E. Kiley of No. 208 Medford street, were arraigned in the Somerville court today charged with highway robbery in connection with the larceny of $25 in money and two bank books, the property of George Smyrnos. It is alleged that they effected the robbery Saturday night on the Somerville avenue bridge after they had pushed a woman into Smyrnos and knocked him down.

Detroit Merchants to Police Streets

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 5.—More than 100 business men today offered their services and their cars to James W. Inches, police commissioner, who has a plan to raise 1,000 volunteers to patrol the city this Winter to forestall crime.

The volunteers will be paired with regular policemen and will patrol the streets two or three nights a week from 7 p. m. to 1 a. m.

MYSTERY IN $339,000 GOLD CARGO FROM RUSSIA

Washington, Oct. 5.—The Department of Justice is investigating the source of a $339,000 shipment of gold from Russia announced by the Federal Reserve Board last week. Belief that it is part of a fund intended to promote Soviet propaganda prompted the inquiry.

ROBBERS BLAMED FOR SLAYING GIRL IN AUTO

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 5.—Police today ascribed robbery as the motive that prompted the fatal shooting of Miss Florence Harton, society girl, early Sunday. She was riding on a lonely road with her fiance, Howard R. Winter. Winter was shot in the arm. He sped with the girl to a hospital but death was winner in the race.

FRENCH FARCE PLEASES AT HOLLIS

By FRED J. McISAAC.
Dramatic Editor.

A lot of staid, middle-aged married men had a good time at the Hollis Street Theatre last night, and it is likely that those who had their wives with them will be regarded suspiciously for some time to come.

For the theme of "Transplanting Jean" goes to demonstrate that a lively and experienced old stepper can win a young girl away from a serious-minded youth any time he exercises his powers of fascination.

This entertainment was known in Paris as "Papa." It was written by De Flers and Caillavet, and translated, apparently with the utmost literariness, by Hallem Thompson.

Papa, in "Transplanting Jean," is played by Arthur Byron, a singularly smooth and talented farceur, whose personality is unusually winning and whose verve would probably overcome the handicap of his abundant white hairs where a lot of the bald-headed and well-heeled sinners out front would fall by the wayside. But to look around and see the smirks upon their countenances while Papa was putting it all over the young men on the stage you would see they didn't think so.

The Compte de Larsac, the character played by Byron, is a genial, lively, humorous and amiable old man with the morals of an alley way cat. The admissions regarding his past life, which he makes during the first act, would cause him to be hung out to Kansas.

It seems that this gentleman was brought to realize he was getting on when one pert madamoiselle laughed at his grey locks when he was extending the courtesy of a kiss. Whereupon he remembered a natural son (oh, it's a typical French comedy) who had lived on a farm until the present, and who should be twenty years old, and he decided to take up the duties of 'is father.

This youth, who turns out to be a good deal of a lout, has gotten engaged to a wriggling beauty whose notions were rather larger than his. When she met the prancing papa her head was quite turned by his fascinating qualities and her affections had no difficulty in shifting. Fortunately the son had decided that she was too lively for him and had taken up with a cow-eyed country lass, so all turned out well.

Martha Hedman, who is co-starred with Byron, played the damsel who fell for the frisky father. Miss Hedman is very satisfying to the eye and a clever comedienne as well, and once you get accustomed to her funny little accent you enjoy hearing her talk.

The company was admirable, on the whole. Richard Barbee, as the simple son, did a very consistant and intelligent job. The only jarring note was George Graham, who played a French friend of the hero with an English accent as thick as a London fog. Forrest Robinson, as a plain country priest, and Winifred Anglin, as the girl Jean finally married, were both competent. Knibbe rne Standing and Olga Lee had a moment or two each to show us Parisien demimondaines, and they were excessively attractive samples.

The company has the faults of most French plays, too much dialogue and too little action, and it is not until the middle of the second act that you really begin to get captured by the piece. After that you couldn't be pried away.

VOLUNTEERS INCREASE IN BOY SCOUT DRIVE

More volunteers appeared today, the third day of the recruiting of scoutmasters for the first district council, Boy Scouts of America. Edward R. Roche, district executive, interviewed many applicants. Walter F. Walters, vice-president of Jordan Marsh Co., urged employes to volunteer. Many theatres are helping the campaign by showing films of the Framingham camp.

Plays That Remain

SHUBERT THEATRE—"East is West," with Fay Bainter, entered on its fifth week last night at the Shubert Theatre and indications are that it will be there for some time to come.

WILBUR THEATRE—"Irene" is in the last fortnight of its run at the Wilbur. The desire to see this most winsome and charming entertainment shows no lessening in its intensity and the theatre is nightly filled to its limit.

PARK SQUARE THEATRE—"The Broken Wing" closes its engagement Saturday night, the 9th, despite the fact that it has enjoyed immense popularity at the Selwyn's Park Square Theatre and is now in the height of its prosperity.

GLOBE THEATRE — Only seven more performances of the scintillating comedy of the North Maine woods "The Cave Girl," will be given at the Globe Theatre, despite the appeal which this bright comedy has made.

MAJESTIC THEATRE—The third week of D. W. Griffith's unusual production of the New England classic, "Way Down East," begins at the Majestic Theatre with records unheard of in Boston theatres. People are turned away nightly with the word that there is no more seats left, but if they will seek accommodations in advance they can obtain just their favorite seats.

TREMONT THEATRE—"The Girl in the Spotlight" began its second week at the Tremont Theatre last evening. This newest of Victor Herbert operas is most tuneful and carries a charming story that enlists interest.

COLONIAL THEATRE—"Hitchy Koo 1920" began its last two weeks at the Colonial Theatre yesterday evening. There are enough stars of the musical stage in the cast of this revue to provide leaders for many productions.

TREMONT TEMPLE—"Go and Get It" began its concluding week at the Tremont Temple yesterday. This awfully moving drama of newspaper life is crowded with stirring dramatic scenes into which there is woven a romance of unusual appeal.

Crescent Garden

Tomorrow—Wednesday evening—there will be a battle of music between the augmented Crescent Gardens Singing Orchestra and Eddie Schell and his popular jazz orchestra, with continuous dancing till midnight. Preparations are being made for a big holiday celebration and late dance next Monday—night before Columbus Day—with two orchestras and special holiday features.

ORPHEUM THEATRE—Yesterday's offerings at Loew's Orpheum Theatre abounded with humor, music and dancing in the form of vaudeville's latest novelties. Conroy and O'Donnell, the parcel postmen, scored a great hit with their timely chatter and nonsensical quips. Harry Thorne & Co. offered a quaint character comedy, "Under One Roof. Ector & Dena, character exponents of music and harmony, lent much charm to the program and their own peculiar style and mannerisms won them great favor.

"FLORODORA" FILLS OPERA HOUSE

"Florodora," with its beauty and its music and its charm, "Florodora," with its dear memories to a world of theatre-goers about twenty years ago, came back to Boston last evening, dressed in a new dress, and Boston was very lavish in welcoming again her favorite of years gone by at the Boston Opera House.

There must have been those in the audience last evening—many of them—who had heard their elders tell of the charm of "Florodora" in the dear days when ladies wore their bustles with a point in front and what kind of a waist did they call it, V shaped?—and when the skirt was gathered much behind, and it was the days of the beginning of the Gibson girl, and everybody who has been anyone since in the dramatic or the divorce line was in the original "Florodora" sextette.

There were those in the audience who had merely heard, till then. At last they knew. And if the generous applause of a packed house meant what they generally do mean in the theatre, then "Florodora" is in as much favor now as when that first sextette, that famous sextette, sang its way into those hearts, in the delightful days when women dressed so quaintly.

Boston welcomed once again, last evening, an old favorite, William Dunforth, who, in the role of Tweedlepunch, made merry for the audience. Eleanor Painter, as Dolores, was beautiful to look upon and beautiful to listen to, as she sang the old "Florodora" songs. Maxine Brown, as the determined little daughter, Dama Sykes, as Lady Holyrood, given to epigram, a bit cynical, smart dowager, Robert C. Pitkin, as Cyrus Cliffain, and Harry Fender, who rendered with vim "I Want to Be a Military Man," were all applauded by the audience.

The scenery of this modern "Florodora" is exquisite. And the sextette —the new one. They are exquisite beauties.

WALDRON'S CASINO—Starting his stage career at the age of fifteen and making people laugh as a boot-black in "Without a Name," with the renowned Minnie Oscar Gray as the star, "Sliding" Billy Watson has kept the public laughing ever since. He is at Waldron's Casino this week with Arthur Pearson's "Hits and Bits." "Slide, Watson, slide," has been the slogan with burlesque audiences of the Columbia Circuit for many seasons, and it is this tribute to the inimitable comedy dancing of Watson which seems to have predominated his popularity.

MALDEN AUDITORIUM—"When We Were Twenty-one," was presented by the Temple Stock Company at the Malden Auditorium yesterday. This very popular and finely written comedy by H. V. Esmond, which for many seasons was the most preferred of the offerings by Nat Goodwin and Maxine Elliott, proved to be one of the most enjoyable ever presented at this playhouse.

Coming Events

WILBUR THEATRE—The attraction at the Wilbur Theatre immediately following the remarkable run of "Irene" will be Sam Bernard and Irene Bordoni in the merry musical revue entitled "As You Were," which ran a year in Paris, a year in London and all season in New York.

GLOBE THEATRE—On next Monday evening that famous comedian, Jimmy Hussey, will bring to the Globe Theatre his new musical revue, "Tattle Tales," with Rae Samuels featured, and supported by a corking cast of feminine beauty and comedians.

PARK SQUARE THEATRE—The seat sale for Arthur Hammerstein's supreme hit, "Jimmie," a musical comedy of spectacular proportions, in which that piquant and adorable Frances Wilds is starred, opened this morning in real earnest at the Selwyn's Park Square Theatre. The opening performance is next Monday night.

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE—One of the most intriguing announcements of the Fall theatrical season is the promise that Messrs. Lee and J. J. Shubert will present in this city the entire Winter Garden organization of 150 people including 100 Winter Garden girls, in the latest success, "Cinderella on Broadway," at the Boston Opera House, October 18.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE—Enjoying an unusual run of one year in New York and whole season in Chicago, Cosmo Hamilton's brilliant play, "Scandal," is at last heralded for presentation at the Plymouth Theatre beginning Monday, October 18.

ARLINGTON THEATRE—The Arlington Theatre will have as its attraction, beginning Monday evening, October 18, the New York and London comedy success, "Paddy the Next Best Thing," with Eileen Huban and Cyril Scott and the New York cast.

MODERN AND BEACON—The Modern and Beacon Theatres were forced to change their bill on very short notice, owing to the lastest Alice Brady film, "A New York Idea," not being released, and in place of which was presented Bebe Daniels in "You Never Can Tell." However, the feature attraction was Maurice Tourneur's super-production, "The Great Redeemer," which lived up to the high standard of this director's former works.

CODMAN SQUARE THEATRE—Douglas Fairbanks scored an enviable success in the screening of "The Mollycoddle" when throngs of Dorchester fans flocked to the Codman Square Theatre to see Doug this "King of smiles" in his hilariously funny vehicle.

GORDON'S OLD SOUTH—There is a veritable screen triumph at Gordon's Old South Theatre, and at the opening performance yesterday a large audience was held spellbound. This quite unusual attraction is Lionel Barrymore in "The Master Mind."

Souvenir Night

Tonight will be celebrated as "Souvenir Night" at the magnificent Crescent Gardens ball room, Revere Beach, and lucky patrons will be presented with beautiful dolls. These little keepsies have become very popular with the younger set and are eagerly sought.

"BETTY" WELL RECEIVED AT ARLINGTON

"Betty, Be Good," the popular musical comedy which made its Boston bow at another of the Shubert theatres last Fall, began a two weeks' run at the Arlington Theatre last night.

Testifying to the esteem in which this lively piece is held in Boston, the house was filled and the enthusiasm enough to warm the cockles of the heart of any manager.

Betty herself returned to Boston with nearly all the splendid cast which appeared in the original production. Such changes as have been made have not weakened the piece.

Harry Delf Hilliard and Jeanette Wiese staged the show at present on at the Arlington. They get the most out of the clever lyrics and book of Harry B. Smith and the lilting music of Hugo Reisenfeld.

Harvie also has a part in the show —a very important part in his capable hands. His rolling eyes, undulating "tummy," multiple chins and sonorous voice have not lost their laugh-provoking power, as was proved last night.

Betty, herself, is played by Rena Parker. Miss Parker, as head of her own musical comedy company and a "Scandal" is at last heralded for presentation at the Plymouth Theatre beginning Monday, October 18.

Russell Lannon is Tom Price, the handsome and melodious hero. He was called back several times last night after his best number, "You Must Keep the Lamp Burning," which he sang with Jean Merode, the beautiful but hapless Amy, who has such a distressing honeymoon.

Miss Merode played her not particularly strong part well, and sang well. "Tell Me, Daisy" proved the most popular of her songs.

Marion Love, nee O'Toole, a cabaret dancer, was played with spirit by Juliette Dana, who also proved capable in the musical numbers. In fact all the principals could sing at least well enough to get by, and were allowed to try. In that particular "Betty, Be Good" is different from some alleged musical comedies which have been permitted to reach the stage.

Other Theatres

PLYMOUTH THEATRE—Mr. and Mrs. Coburn began a limited engagement at the Plymouth last night in a new, light comedy entitled "French Leave." The piece will be reviewed in Wednesday's American.

PARK THEATRE—Under Crimson Skies," the feature picture shown at the Park Theatre this week, featuring Elmo Lincoln, is the story of a captain who forced the law hard with his crew and whose discipline is misunderstood by the wife of a surgeon who is soon signaling fire arms unknown to the captain. The gun runner is caught in his own net and his wife is saved by the captain, who had in the meantime become the leader of a motley crew of beachcombers.

"The Adorable Savage," the other feature, stars Edith Roberts.

SCOLLAY SQ. OLYMPIA—Heading another diverting bill of vaudeville at Gordon's Scollay Square Olympia yesterday were eight Dixie boys and girls, singing, dancing and rollicking funmakers, in "Celebrating a Day in Tennessee." Another feature was Prescher and Klass, a wealth of melody, in the musical extravaganza, "A Lively Affair."

GORDON'S OLYMPIA—The Notorious Miss Lisle," which was shown last evening at Gordon's Olympia, starring Katherine MacDonald, is an accurate picturization of the widely read novel by Mrs Hallie Erminie Rives describing the romantic adventures of Gamor Lisle, who leaves England to avoid the notoriety of a big society scandal.

SOMERVILLE THEATRE—"Three Faces East," Paul Anthony Kelly's great mystery play, was presented yesterday for the first time in Somerville by the talented Somerville Players. Patrons of the Somerville Theatre remarked the long run which this play had scored in New York and Boston, exulted themselves at the first opportunity to witness the unravelling of a mystery that has thrilled and baffled audiences since it was first produced.

COLUMBIA THEATRE—With William S. Hart and Douglas Fairbanks heading a team of stars and up to the minute vaudeville and photoplays, there is small wonder that Loew's Columbia Theatre was the centre of much interest yesterday.

UPHAMS CORNER STRAND—No. 1 offering screen star could have been selected to follow George M. Cohan in the latter's tremendous stage success, "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway," than Charles Ray, appearing this week at the Uphams Corner Strand.

CHELSEA OLYMPIA—The chance-more Biting screen star could have been selected to follow George M. Cohan in the latter's tremendous stage success, "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway," than Charles Ray, Anita Stewart in "The Fighting Shepherdess," which was seen yesterday at Gordon's Chelsea Olympia.

Rich cocoanut in luscious chocolate

—another "good eater"

MIXED in the way that gives the "good eating" quality Close is famous for!

George Close had the knack of mixing candies. That's the secret of a "good eater"—the way it's mixed. And he passed on his ways to the younger men at Close's.

Today they are making "good eaters" in bar form. A handy amount for a handy price—that's their idea. A pocket package that's top grade candy.

Why Teeth Glisten

after dental cleaning—Why they soon grow dim

All statements approved by authorities

Your teeth glisten for awhile after a dental cleaning. Then they soon grow dim.

The reason lies in film. That is what makes teeth dingy. Your dentist removes it, but your tooth brush leaves much of it intact.

Now there's a way to daily combat film. Millions of people employ it. Shining teeth seen everywhere show how much it means. This is to urge that you try it and see what it means to you.

You must fight film

That viscous coat you feel on teeth is film. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. The tooth brush does not end it used in ordinary ways. So, in the months between your dental cleanings, it may do ceaseless damage.

It more than dims teeth—it destroys them. Most tooth troubles are now traced to film. And, despite the tooth brush, those tooth troubles have been constantly increasing.

It is the film-coat that discolors, not the teeth. Film is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. And that is alarmingly common.

Science finds ways

Dental science has for years sought ways to fight that film. Proper tooth protection was impossible without it. This world-wide research has resulted in efficient methods, now at your command.

Years of careful tests have proved them. Authorities endorse them. Leading dentists everywhere advise them.

The methods are combined now in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. Millions already employ it, largely by dental advice. To those who do not know it yet we send a test tube free.

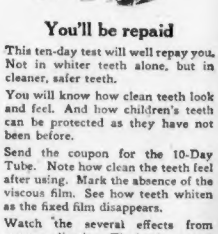
See and feel it act

One needs no scientific knowledge to realize Pepsodent effects. The results are quick and apparent. Every application repeats the benefits it brings.

One ingredient is pepsin. Another multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva, to digest starch deposits that cling. The alkalinity of the saliva is multiplied also, to neutralize the acids which cause tooth decay.

Two factors directly attack the film. One of them keeps the teeth so highly polished that film cannot easily adhere.

The film-coats are day-by-day fought as they never were before.



You'll be repaid

This ten-day test will well repay you. Not in whiter teeth alone, but in cleaner, safer teeth.

You will know how clean teeth look and feel. And how children's teeth can be protected as they have not been before.

Send the coupon for the 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the fixed film disappears.

Watch the several effects from every application. The book we send will tell the reasons for them. You will quickly know that Pepsodent brings a new era in teeth cleaning. Cut out the coupon now.

LEADER OF THE BROOKLYNS COMPARES THE RIVAL TEAMS

DODGERS BEST, SAYS WHEAT

Superior Pitching Sure to Tell in Big Series, Declares Crafty Captain

By ZACK ("BUCK") WHEAT, Captain of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Brooklyn, Oct. 5.—We are going to win! Our pitching staff is superior to the Indians, and it is an accepted fact that pitching is 75 per cent. of the battle.

I need only recount who these pitchers are to convince any of the followers of the game of the correctness of my prediction.

First of all, there is Grimes, a right-hander who has given such an exhibition of real, high-class starring this season; and Pfeffer another right-hander with great speed and control; Mamaux and Cadore, two more right-handers of constant playing and ability; and Smith and Marquard, our two left-hand shooters.

This is certainly a much better balanced staff than Cleveland has to offer. For one thing it is six against four—and six comparatively fresh pitchers against a lesser number, the two headliners of which are somewhat jaded. I don't mean, of course, that Cleveland has only four pitchers of total ability, rather that only four are comparable with our first six.

HOW INDIANS COMPARE

The Indians are of course la Barba. We have no illusions as to the ability of this right-hander—of thirty-one victories this season are sufficient proof of his prowess. But we have it on good authority that Bagby has been used pretty hard and is a little the worse for wear.

Then there are Coveleskie and Caldwell, both right-handers, and Mails, a southpaw. That tells the story of real World's Series material for I do not class Morton, Uhle and Clark with Marquard, Mitchell and Cadore.

Of course this is my opinion. But it indicates my confidence in the superiority of our pitching staff.

That Cleveland has outbatted us this season is shown by the totals, but please remember that we are second to none as pinch hitters. We do our hitting when it counts to win games. And we expect to do the same with Cleveland to run this to form and hit ourselves out of any fight for it. Consistently throughout the season we did our best work at critical times.

DODGERS A FIGHTING TEAM.

The Indians, on the other hand, were frequently beaten in crucial series with opponents worthy of their steel. Cleveland won because of piling up victories over the weak teams in the American League, not by beating the strong teams decisively.

The Brooklyn team is a fighting team—game to the core. There is no denying that the Indians are game, too—game in the face of almost overwhelming disadvantagements, and that they have a wonderful example in Tris Speaker. With his batting as an example, it is no wonder that the Indians show up so well with the stick.

But the chief reason why I think the Brooklyn team will take the World Series to become so have so stamped Wilbert Robinson, the greatest leader of men in baseball history.

TIPPERARY WOMEN WILL HOLD REUNION

A reunion of the women of Tipperary will be held in Historic Hall, Pearson building, Washington street, South End, Monday evening, October 11, under the auspices of the ladies' auxiliary of the Tipperary Men's Association of the Central Council of Irish County Clubs. Edward F. Shaw heads the committee of arrangements. Miss Catherine Morphy is secretary and James Ryan treasurer.

ATHLETIC DANCER ACCUSED IN COURT

New York, Oct. 5.—Per 100 faithfully depicting Adonis in an aesthetic Greek dance, Herman Breithart, a dancing teacher, was convicted of disorderly conduct and remanded for sentence. The charge was made by Mrs. Edith Murphy, who said that Breihart had danced an improper dance with her eight-year-old daughter Isabelle.

BOY ACCUSED OF STEALING $1,000 AUTO

A sixteen-year-old, giving the name and address of George Rooy, Arcadia street, Dorchester, was caught after a chase by Store Detective Sharp and police officers as he was under arrest charged with "delinquency" in stealing a $1,600 automobile on Harrison avenue, from Frank K. McLeod of Bond street, Somerville. When he ran the car into an express team the boy jumped and ran.

BUGS BAER'S COLUMN

Government will take over baseball and put it on a war basis. No bribing players without a Federal license. Talking back to umps comes under the head of the Trading-With-the-Enemy act.

Custodian of Alien Property will handle all thermos bottles in lower grandstand. Gamblers will be searched for concealed, deadly bribes.

Baseball has certainly skidded since they played One Old Cat next door to the backyard with the mean bulldog in it. Makes you shiver to think that once the Married Men used to play the Single Men at Sunday school picnics.

The father of baseball should have kept his child in the house at nights.

MAKE IT TOUGH ON CROOKS IF YOU CAN'T BAR THEM.

The world may be safe for democracy, but the wise guy puts two locks on his hen house door. You can't keep the crooks out of sport any more than you can keep malaria out of puddles. But, like a lunch room sirloin, you can make it tough for 'em.

The old popular way to hype up a bum saloon was to hang out a sign saying the headache parlor was under new management. Same punk booze and sour beer, but no improvement in the thirst killers. This World Series is under new management, and that goes for everything. Not that the old mangement was all curly. You can't blame Mr. Comiskey.

INSIDE BALL PLAYED ON OUTSIDE SALARIES.

Comiskey is one straight string that nobody ever tied any knots in. He didn't know that his outfielders were in business for themselves. Comiskey didn't know that his team was playing inside baseball with outside salaries and looking under pillows for sweet dreams printed by the U. S. Treasury.

After each play in this series the Secret Service will squint under the base bags for any undelivered registered letters.

It will be on the up and up. Even the ticket speculators will have to wear rubber heels. The baseball fan will be just as safe at the series as he would be at home during the rolling pin and chinaware equinoxes.

There will be undoubtedly lots of rumors circulated, but you generally find that rumors are started by some dumbbell who couldn't find the right date in a calendar factory.

This is the World Series, not the underworld series.

Olympic Games Success Says British Star

By A. G. HILL,
British Olympic Champion.

London, Oct. 5.—The spirit of true sportsmanship never reached a higher plane than at Antwerp. It brought athletes together from all parts of the world to fraternize and become firm friends, to cheer the winners and to learn something in the highest sense of the brotherhood of sport. The Olympic meeting of 1920 achieved all that was hoped for it, and more.

Before Antwerp we were told that the Olympic games were on trial. There were persons who sought to prove the games were a failure long before a single runner entered the track, and there was a lukewarmness on the part of the public difficult to understand.

After Antwerp, the self-appointed critics have been loud in their declarations that the games failed completely and that it will be foolish for the British association to compete in future series.

Because the Belgian stadium was not packed to overflowing each day it is urged that the great international contest should be abandoned.

I hold different views. As a competitor, I hold the games were a tremendous success and that it would be a very unwise policy for Britain to stand aloof in future years.

The British team did better than was expected, after the gloomy views advanced by the pessimists. In future years, however, Britain will have to remodel her methods if she is to do better. New ideas are needed in the councils of controlling authorities, chiefly in regard to selection and preparation.

During the past season trials, so called, were held at various centers. The whole series was a complete failure and will ever be so, for the idea is wrong.

Almost without exception the Britons chosen to go to Antwerp had all proved themselves in 1919, and it is safe to assume that the great majority who will represent this country in 1924 will be performing with distinction in 1923.

Those men must be noted. They must be warned that they are likely to be sent to run at the games and make it a condition for final selection that for 1924 they must put the games before pot-hunting, meet for training at various centers periodically, and so arrange their programs that the international will find them on the top of their form.

My own case illustrates the wisdom of this. Last year I knew my form was good enough to put me in the team, and after no picture thought I denied myself the pleasure of competitive running for the greater part of the present season. The result was that I went to Antwerp in the finest condition that a man could enjoy.

Other of the British runners who had followed their usually full program had distinctly a suspicion of staleness. Prevent this in the future by telling the men the year before they will be wanted and insisting that they time their preparation for the games to the exclusion of all else.

Britain also needs coaches. I was born a runner and was winning championships as far back as 1910, yet I learned a great deal from my coach, sufficient to make me a world beater where before I was not.

At thirty-two I was able to win because of wise coaching and using my head.

Just a word of advice to the youngsters who are taking up athletics seriously. The first: do not freak things. Speaking personally, dieting can be disregarded. Eat what suits you, but learn to avoid the things you know do you harm. Do not start by denying yourself things until you feel a martyr. I don't. I smoke and do not deny myself a little alcohol, but I permit no excesses of any kind.

As to actual preparation, be careful not to overdo things. For the first month confine the work to easy cantering on the track, but never make yourself feel tired and never go at your top speed for the whole distance of the race you are to run. If in training you never run the full distance with the maximum of your power you will run it all the better in the actual race.

In racing use your head. Most races are won by keeping cool and letting the leader make the pace until it suits you to go ahead with a finishing sprint. Do not try to force the pace. Leave that to someone else and though you may not succeed until you have matured your judgment, in the end you will find yourself winning.

11 TEACHERS RESIGN; SIX TO BE MARRIED

Eleven teachers in Boston schools tendered their resignation at a meeting of the School Committee. Ten of the number are women, six of whom are to be married. The resignations are in addition to that of Owen D. Evans, principal of the Continuation School.

Those who have given up their positions are:

Helen M. Horton, assistant in the Blackstone-Carleton district; Josephine A. Power, assistant in the Bunker Hill district; Grace E. Russell, kindergarten assistant, Hancock district; Constance Hereford assistant John Winthrop district; Hilda Benjamin, sewing; Ruth Ward [illegible]; Lucy Charlotte Quinn, frank assistant, Lewis intermediate district; Lillian Levitt, assistant, Roger Wolcott district; Minnie A. Allen, assistant, Theodore Lyman district; Irene L. Hines, assistant Oliver Wendell Holmes district, and Mary J. Mahle, teacher in sewing, and Harold J. Smith, instructor in the Roxbury High School.

WILSON'S ATTITUDE LAID TO OBSESSION

FEATHERS READY FOR TITLE GO

Fitzsimmons and Josephs Both Fit for Torrid Battle at Commercial A. C.

By JACK CONWAY.

Billy Fitzsimmons apparently doesn't know such a little thing as a World's Series is in progress, for he is busy over in Chelsea preparing for his ten-round bout with Bobby Josephs at the Commercial A. C.'s show in the Grand Opera House tomorrow night.

Fitz says he will wallop Josephs as soundly as Babe Ruth thumps the ball when he connects with one of his full swings.

He it known that Fitz was the visible boss of our New England featherweights until a few weeks ago. He lost his title to Josephs after a torrid battle at Lynn. He is now out to regain his honors and doesn't care who knows it.

Inasmuch as Josephs is one of those tenacious youths who holds onto everything he gets in the way of championships, there should be plenty of doings at Rob McKirdy's club.

* * *

The revelations before the Cook County Grand Jury don't call for all the honors in the league of sensations. We happened to be around early today on account of the World's Series and saw Kayo Muggsy doing road work in the Fenway. Get it? Muggsy really training.

When Clarence Funk's protege was knocking 'em all for a "goal," he never bothered to train.

Then he started skidding and now believes a little training is necessary, even for a fighter with a punch. Muggsy is billed to clash with Mickey Donovan of Brockton at the Quincy Boxing Club Thursday night.

George Carter writes that Nate Siegal is busy training at his private camp. "The Revere welterweight is getting plenty of work and a lot of rest," writes Carter. "He will not experience any trouble in making 143 pounds; in fact, Natt could reduce to 140 pounds if necessary."

By HUGH S. FULLERTON.

Cleveland wins the Dope World's Series.

Lay out the pitching talent of the two teams as you will, there seems to be no combination by which Brooklyn can hope to overcome the superiority of the Indians as a scoring machine, nor can their hitting power, as pitted against the Indians' box staff, seem to accumulate enough power to break the defence of the Speaker tribe.

In applying these final tests to the dope I was compelled to make a slight change in the relative strengths of the teams, due to the fact that Sewall was granted permission to play in the series. Before that I was in doubt, knowing him to be ineligible, but believing that because of the conditions under which he came into the league after the death of Chapman an exception would be made in his case. However, the figures were not altered enough to make any radical change in the team strengths, for what Cleveland gained in defensive, it lost in attacking power.

I have figured out how many runs, hits and errors each team should make against the probable pitchers of the opposing teams, and if the pitchers are matched against each other as it seems probable they will be, Cleveland appears a certain winner. It is possible, however, for Ruby to select pitchers who can prolong the series to eight games, although from the dope it appears that Cleveland should capture five out of the first seven struggles, in spite of the fact that the dope favors Brooklyn to win the opening game.

ANALYZING THE DOPE.

The system by which I figure out is simple enough. We have translated the official averages of each man into his strength in his position and then collected the individuals into teams so that we know the comparative team strengths and the strength against the entire pitching staff of the opposition, but against each pitcher.

To get at probable results we select Coveleskie as pitcher for Brooklyn and study each Cleveland player against him, how he usually hits, his chances of drawing a base, of stealing against Miller and Grimes, whether the succeeding batter would sacrifice. We go through the inning that way, take up the next and so through the entire game, and we have a clear idea of how many hits and runs Cleveland ought to get. We must do that with every pitcher likely to work.

The next step is practically guesswork. We must figure or guess which pitchers the managers will choose. It seems a practical certainty that Grimes and Bagby will be the nomination for the first game and the dope indicates that Grimes ought to win that game 5 to 2.

PROBABLE PITCHING ORDER.

If the rival managers open the series with their pitching aces, all the chances are that each will follow up with a left-hander—Cleveland using Mails and Brooklyn putting Sherrod Smith against him. In that case the dope indicates that Mails would be victor, 5 to 4, after a hard battle.

It rather surprised me to see how well Cleveland ought to hit a pitcher of Smith's type. I had been inclined to think, prior to analyzing the figures, that Smith was Robby's big chance of winning. I still think that, in this game, Cleveland will use pinch hitters. The team is dangerously strong in that way and can switch suddenly and effectively against left-handers.

The situation of the two mangers is exactly different. Speaker is compelled to rely upon Bagby, Mails and Coveleskie unless he gets the series well in hand and can afford to take a chance with Caldwell or Morton. Brooklyn would hit either one hard, as Morton is not now the pitcher he was.

CHANCES FOR POOR CHOICE.

On the other hand Robinson is suffering from a wealth of pitchers. Someone wrote the other day that he could not make a mistake, whereas in reality the large number of good pitchers gives him all the opportunities in the world to make mistakes. He must have effective pitching to win an equal chance in this series and therefore must use his best pitchers. I am inclined to think that he will stick close to his three above average pitchers—Grimes, Smith and Pfeffer, unless compelled by the tide of fortunes of the game to shift and bring in the reserves.

Pfeffer is not this season the pitcher he has been, and his style of working seems to suit Cleveland better than the others. If he should meet Coveleskie in the third game, as seems probable, providing the dope is right, it dopes to be an easy victory for Cleveland. Coveleskie comes very near being the best pitcher in the country. At his best form I doubt whether there is a man in either league who is his equal. Indications, however, are that he is not at his best. He and Bagby show signs of arm weariness. Both, however, figure to work better as they proceed.

The dope shows that Cleveland's superiority of attack and defence will tell more and more as the series is prolonged. However, the figures indicate that the Indians will win in seven games unless outgeneraled in the selection of pitchers.

Brooklyn must use the advantage in getting his pitchers rested for a week, and "pepped up" for the opening battle, or Cleveland would need to use stars to stave off defeats.

Now that the dope is finished and the air is clearing, let's all adjourn to Brooklyn and root for the better team.

BASEBALL IS HONEST, DECLARES MATHEWSON

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Oct. 5.—The very great majority of the major league players must not be condemned because of the action of the few who have been indicted for throwing baseball games, said Christy Mathewson, once pitcher of the New York Giants, who is here undergoing treatment for tuberculosis.

Baseball still remains a clean game in spite of the gestures of grafting players, Matty said.

ROTHSTEIN BACK IN SPOTLIGHT

'King of Gamblers' Again Figures in World Series Scandal Probe

New York, Oct. 5.—The name of Arnold Rothstein again was pulled into the investigation of the 1920 World's Series here today, when District Attorney Swann said he had been informed that Rothstein had advised several of his friends to bet on Cincinnati, but also had informed a few not too wise men to wager on the White Sox. Some of the money bet by the latter named, the District Attorney intimated, had found is way into the pockets of the "King of Gamblers."

Swann said no subpoena had been issued for Rothstein, but declared he would make every effort to find out what Rothstein knows of the gambling without offering him a chance to gain immunity from prosecution.

"I don't want to give Mr. Rothstein immunity under any circumstances," he said.

Abe Attel, former featherweight champion, who is threatened to "spill the lid off" the investigation, still was in hiding today. His counsel declared Attell is in town and will appear when it becomes necessary.

Probe Income Taxes of White Sox Players

Washington, Oct. 5.—Examination of the income tax returns filed by the Chicago baseball players indicted by the Chicago grand jury for having "thrown" the 1919 World's Series, has been begun by officials of the Internal Revenue Bureau. They want to see if the players paid tax on the money received for throwing the games.

Officials state that if it is found that tax was not paid the players will be prosecuted by the government for this offence also.

Comiskey Rewards Loyal Players

Chicago, Oct. 5.—The loyal members of the 1919 White Sox team, who beat the world's championship last year through a "frame-up" of the series, were rewarded by Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the club, who gave each player, except the eight under indictment, a check for the difference between the winners' and losers' end of the series. The amount is approximately $1,500 for each player.

Joe Jackson to Quit Baseball

Greenville, S. C., Oct. 5.—Joe Jackson and Lefty Williams, two of the eight Chicago players indicted who are reported to have confessed receiving $5,000 each for fixing games in the 1919 World's Series, arrived here by motor to spend several days as the guests of Jackson's parents at their home in a suburb of Greenville. The "companions in misery," as they termed themselves, said that if the investigators will probe thoroughly they will find men higher up in baseball at the bottom of the scandal, and they intimated that they may be led to make some exposures.

Jackson said he was through with baseball for good, and that he does not intend to play even independent ball.

"I'm going to work," he said.

EIGHT SOCCER GAMES ON HARVARD SCHEDULE

Speaker First to Win Flag for Cleveland

Cleveland has entered the list of American League cities which have won league championships, and Tris Speaker can have anything in Cleveland he wants, from the statue of Mark Hanna down.

How Tris accomplished a thing that had been written down in the minds of Cleveland fans as an impossibility is something of a mystery, but he did it mainly because he was able to faithfully guard his team against a persistent jinx that has followed the club from the time Ban Johnson located it in the Forest City.

Some brilliant managers have guided the destinies of the Cleveland team, and some of the greatest ball players baseball ever saw have served their stardom in that city.

Yet every year some conspiracy of fate has taken a pennant out of the city.

Ray Chapman, a brilliant shortstop, was killed this year, and for a time it seemed impossible for the team to recover from the blow.

But the smiling confidence of Speaker, his ability to make his players rise to great heights, saved the day. Chapman's death only delayed the day for cinching the flag.

OTHER MANAGERS FAILED.

Larry Lajoie, famous second baseman, tried hard to manage the old Naps into a pennant. He was a star player, but not much shucks as a manager.

Joe Birmingham, a really smart manager and a good ball player, tried it with a star team and failed.

Lee Fohl, who succeeded Birmingham, was an extraordinary developer of young talent, and he had some wonderful ball players he didn't have to develop; but he, too, fell down on the job.

It now is generally known that Speaker was offered the job of managing the Indians in the Winter of 1918-19, but turned down the proposal. He declared he didn't believe it did a player any good to assume a managerial burden and expressed the belief that he could do the team more good by just playing centre field and hitting the ball. He didn't convince James C. Dunn, owner of the club, and the Cleveland fans, however.

They persisted in their efforts to get Speaker to take the job, and he finally consented, in the middle of the 1919 Summer, when Lee Fohl suddenly resigned.

Right here the fortunes of the Indians turned. From an apparently apathetic good baseball team the men turned themselves into a club of raging fighters, and they made the White Sox step right lively at the end of the season to win the pennant.

The season was almost over before the club finally won the game that put them out of reach of the Speaker ensemble.

SPEAKER GETS TEAMWORK.

Speaker's showing with the team in the latter part of the season drew the attention of the critics as nothing else could have, so he was started off this season with the assurances of the critics that he would win the pennant with his team. And he has.

It is a sort of brotherly love thing that has worked this miracle for Cleveland. There isn't a member of the Cleveland team who won't praise Speaker to the skies, and he's the best pal he ever had.

He calls steeps and talks baseball with the men he directs.

He gets every last ounce of energy out of his men and they play ball the Speaker way.

Offer all its teamwork that counts in baseball rather than the individual baseball puzzles a manager must solve, and Speaker has proved himself an adept at getting this sort of co-operation.

Speaker's fears that managing the club would interfere with his hitting and fielding are fully refuted by his averages for the season.

He has fielded in the sensational style that only Speaker can flash, and his hitting is nearly 100 points better than it was in 1919.

Speaker is one of the greatest ball players the game ever has seen. He generally is referred to as the personification of grace as a fielder, but his hitting also leaves little to be desired.

When a man can hit nearly .400 throughout a season it is pure foolishness of how it is done and not a lucky way of driving a ball.

Speaker is that kind of a hitter. In addition, he is one of the best runners in the American League, has at the circuit nearly all season in the matter of driving in runs and is a base-runner of great skill.

Speaker was sold to Cleveland by the Boston Red Sox for a cash consideration of $50,000 and three ball players.

BROOKLYN FANS OUT IN FORCE

Scandals and Rumors of Scandals Fail to Dampen Ardor for World's Series

By NICK FLATLEY.

Brooklyn, Oct. 5.—Judging from the actions of the good citizens of this borough and those on the other side of the bridge today, there never has been such a thing as a baseball scandal or it might be that scandals are so common that they mean nothing here or anywhere over the United States.

There is little betting. Most of the big gamblers are being watched too closely to do any business and anyway they never bet unless they have an axe to grind. Some of the easterners wagered among themselves and it is said Cleveland was the favorite at odds of 8 to 5.

Rowland Favors Cleveland to Win

Clarence Rowland, former manager of the White Sox, said the Indians had a good chance to win.

"The Brooklyn pitchers might be good," he said, but everything is even when you compare Steve O'Neill with Ruby Dudley and Steve has it over them like a tent and offset what little advantage the twirlers might have."

Everybody was guessing about the probable pitchers in the first game.

The wise gents believed Robbie would start a left-hander, meaning Marquard or Smith. Jim Bagby is the guessers' favorite for Cleveland, but it wouldn't be surprising if the dope was all crossed up.

Burleigh Grimes, the spitballer, is the best pitcher on the Indians staff. Therefore it would be only natural to start him in the first game.

Coveleskie Looks Like Man to Start

Coveleskie looked like the best bet for Cleveland. He is a deceptive pitcher and should get results against a strange ball club. If Coveleskie is effective it is believed that Walter Mails will perform in the second game. Bagby will be held in reserve for the third game and after he has had a chance to study the opposing batters.

The Cleveland team did not arrive until early today, this violating all World Series traditions. The visiting players and officials were in the strange diamond the day before the opening conflict, but Speaker evidently cannot see it. He believes his men could play just as well their first time out.

MINORS OPEN BIG SERIES

Baltimore and St. Paul Teams in Tilts to Decide Championship

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 5.—With Brooklyn and Cleveland are engaging in their final World's Series tilt, the question of supremacy between the big minor leagues will be at stake here.

Baltimore, pennant winner of the International League, and St. Paul, American Association champion, met here this afternoon in the first of a series of games.

Baltimore was stripped by the assassin of Pete Mahoney, who was up for the day because of the death of his mother. He was be pushed hard, but I feel we can stand the gaff and come out ahead," predicted Mike Kelly, manager of the St. Paul team. "I know the class of the makers would find our team too tough a proposition and I feel that St. Paul great as it is, would have the same thing," said Jack Dunn, manager of the Baltimore team.

WOMEN GOLFERS IN MATCH PLAY

Miss Glenna Collett Draws Miss Elaine Rosenthal as First Round Opponent

By ROBERT E. HARLOW.

Cleveland, Oct. 5.—Things have surely changed in the realm of women's golf. A few years back Greater Boston golfers would furnish as many as fifty entries in the national championship as was the situation in 1909, eight from Boston qualified in 1910, nine in 1912, three in 1913, six and in 1919, eight.

This year Boston did not qualify a single player, but the West qualified seven, the South eight and a number from smaller but just as Western localities. Philadelphia and Chicago each qualified six, in spite of the prestige of the Hall.

Match play started today over the grounds of the Mayfield Country Club. The match of greatest interest in New England golfers was contested by Miss Glenna Collett of Providence and Miss Elaine Rosenthal of Chicago. Miss Collett defeated Miss Rosenthal earlier in the season in the invitation tournament at New London.

Miss Collett scored a 94 in the qualifying round, she played exceedingly steady golf up to the green, but fell down when it came to pitch shots and putting.

Miss Eleanor Allen was the only Boston golfer to start in the championship flight and failed to qualify. She took 91 out and 13 in.

Miss Marion Hollins of New York was the only player to equal par for the qualifying rounds, with a one under—42, which cut the women's record for the Mayfield course by one stroke. Miss Alexia Stirling, the champion, had the second best score, and Mrs. Miss Hollins' card.

Miss Hollins	4	4	4	4	4	4	4	4	4—36
	3	4	4	5	4	4	4	4	5—42
Miss Stirling	4	4	4	4	4	4	4	4	4—36
	4	4	4	5	4	4	4	4	5—42

The draw for the first round of match play follows:

Miss L. S. Turnbull, Philadelphia (37), vs. Miss Ruth Underhill, Chicago (39).
Miss E. L. Harwood, Chicago (37), vs. Miss Alexia Stirling, Chicago (38).
Miss Jessie Sloan, Chicago (39), vs. Miss Mary Adams, Chicago (38).
Miss Edith Cummings, Chicago (38), vs. Miss Helen Cummings, Chicago (38).
Miss Arnold Jackson, New York (39), vs. Miss Dorothy Porter, Chicago (39).
Miss Dorothy Campbell, Chicago (37), vs. Miss Mary Browne, Chicago (37).
Miss Edith Cummings, Chicago (38), vs. Miss Arnold Jackson, New York (39).
Miss Dorothy Campbell, Chicago (37), vs. Miss Mary Browne, Chicago (37).
Miss Dorothy Porter, Chicago (39), vs. Miss Mary Adams, Chicago (38).
Miss Edith Cummings, Chicago (38), vs. Miss Helen Cummings, Chicago (38).
Miss Arnold Jackson, New York (39), vs. Miss Dorothy Porter, Chicago (39).
Miss Dorothy Campbell, Chicago (37), vs. Miss Mary Browne, Chicago (37).
Miss Mildred Caverly, Philadelphia (39), vs. Miss Dorothy Porter, Chicago (39).
Miss Eleanor E. Allen, Cleveland (37), vs. Miss Harriet Foreman, Chicago (39).
Miss Dorothy Porter, Chicago (39), vs. Miss Dorothy Palmer, New York (41), vs. Miss Mary Browne, Chicago (37).
Mrs. R. H. Barlow, Philadelphia (36), vs. Miss L. S. Turnbull, Philadelphia (37).
Miss E. L. Harwood, Chicago (37), vs. Miss Alexia Stirling, Chicago (38).
Miss Mildred Caverly, Philadelphia (39), vs. Miss Dorothy Porter, Chicago (39).
Miss Eleanor E. Allen, Cleveland (37), vs. Miss Harriet Foreman, Chicago (39).

When a Girl Marries

Story of the Interesting Happenings in Life of Young Married Couple

By Ann Lisle

HIS tone suggested there were things hidden under the words he said—concealing more than he revealed.

"We do," I agreed. Then, controlling myself not to try to force Jim's confidence beyond the point he was ready to have it go, I continued with Tom's story.

"I'd have been perfectly clear in my mind about Tom—only as soon as he got me comfortable about Daisy and his attitude toward her he switched off onto something equally puzzling."

An Invitation

"And what was that, kitten?"—very tolerantly from Jim.

"Irma Warren."

"Indeed?" A whistle from my husband, expressing question and acceptance at once.

"He wants us to dine with him one at his home," I went on. "We two, Miss Warren and Mr. Haldane. I don't understand his putting himself out so much. I don't understand his interest in that dear, simple, old-fashioned girl, who's so different from all the people he travels with."

"Don't you, my dear?" asked Jim, pulling me around and studying my face quizzically before he gave me a quick, saucy kiss and let me go again. "Don't you?"

"Well, then—explain, if I'm so stupid."

"Oh, if a man like Tom Mason gets round to settling down," remarked Jim, in a tone that showed he accepted as all right, "what's more natural than that he should pick out a girl just like Miss Warren? Splendid family connections. Simple and unworldly—pleasant contrast for Tommie's jaded soul. Money. Distinguished background and all that——"

"Jim Harrison! And you think that's decent?"

"Decent? It's admirable," replied Jim, looking at me with a puzzled frown.

"Good enough for a fresh, untried soul like Irma Warren? Good enough for her?" I protested vigorously.

Then something stopped me. It wasn't just that I had vowed to quit playing "Mrs. Fix-It." It was bigger and more vital than that.

The difference in my attitude and Jim's regarding Tom's fitness to be a suitor for Irma Warren's hand—provided Philandering Tom were at last as serious as that—was the basic difference in viewpoint between my husband and me. The Harrison view of life versus the Lee outlook. And I sak plainly the signals set red:

"Danger ahead!"

For Bridge

"Too tired to go up to Val's for a bridge game tonight?" asked Jim the second evening after his return.

"Not a bit," I replied. "Shall I phone and ask if they want us to come?"

"No need of that," said Jim. "I fixed it up today."

"Then you wouldn't Val have telephoned and asked me if I liked the arrangement?" burst from me before I could stop myself. Consider the unwisdom of so revealing my feelings.

"Come, come, my dear, don't get mad because Lane and I made up a little party and take out girls for granted," replied Jim, gently. But once I relented, ashamed of my burst of temper and the quick flare of jealousy all about nothing.

"I'll be ready in a jiffy," I said. "Just let me give my nails a polish, so they'll shine at bridge even if I don't."

"Vanity, vanity, thy name is woman!" misquoted Jim, coming to my dressing table, however, and holding out his hands for a little buffing.

In a minute our preparations were made; and, in the laughing mood our stunt induced, we raced up to the elevator and up to Val's.

Lane answered our ring; and, in the very breath with which he greeted us the big brown bear turned and flung out a seemingly admonition:

Held in Hall

"It's Anne and Jim, folks!"

There was a scuffling and moving about of things almost as if this were a warning. And it seemed to my alert nerves that Lane held us in the hall a moment or two. Then Val swept out and welcomed us royally. When we got into the living room there were Uncle Ned and Aunt Mollie, and Val followed their hearty greeting with a little gipsy.

"If I'd understood you were coming I'd have insisted on having you in for dinner."

I turned to Jim questioningly. Had I caught him in a lie? If I had he displayed no guilty or apologetic consciousness about it, for he said easily:

"Oh, we had a first-rate grub in Harrisonia. Are the Willoughby girls, or whatever their name is, coming in for bridge?"

"Did Lane promise you that to lure you here?" asked Val, smiling indolently at Jim in the provocative way I'd forgotten. "No; I didn't ask them. Anne and Aunt Mollie might have a rubber or two with Uncle Ned and my big brown bear while you and I discuss—things."

There was a hardly perceptible pause before the last work. It made me uneasy—stirred emotions I had barely gotten under control and didn't want to risk rousing again.

"I'm game!" said Lane, getting out the bridge table promptly and without consulting his guests about their preferences. "And I challenge those championship players known as Pettigrill to a match with the fair Princess Anne and me. Are you on, folks?"

"If my bride is in form I hate to think what she'll do to you," said Uncle Ned. "I need her to inspire the old man—he's kind of taken up with other ideas tonight. Excuse me a minute before we start, children."

Saying this, he went over and whispered something in Jim's ear which caused my boy to laugh and pat Uncle Ned reassuringly on the back, with a murmured confidence to Val.

"Bridge isn't my game!" I gasped in chagrin a while later.

Lost Game

Lane, my partner, had doubled Aunt Mollie's no-trumper; and, after I had failed to take him out in my longest suit, he declared two diamonds, which I, with good spades in my hand, let go by. Then Uncle Ned jumped the bid to three hearts; and I was too frightened—or too intent on the earnest conversation between Jim and Val—to gamble on my spades or Lane's diamonds, of which I held three. Of course, it turned out that Aunt Mollie had two spades and Uncle Ned had no diamonds. So they established a cross-ruff and, trumping our best cards, made four tricks and the game.

I was too upset to care. But I had to spoil Lane's game, and when he took it very nicely I felt worse than ever. Then I had what seemed an inspiration.

"Someone else cut in and let me out," I said.

"Suppose you and I cut out and have a little chat, dear," said Aunt Mollie unsuspiciously.

There was a quick exchange of telegraphic glances, and then Jim cried:

"That's fine. Give Uncle Ned and me a chance to trim these Cox-bys."

"Oh, you're going to be my partner, Jimmie. And when I'm through you three boys can talk over—certain plans—while I keep Anne and Aunt Mollie from listening in," said Val creamily.

My brain whirled. This tone of complete understanding toward Jim—this acknowledgment that there was something in the wind from which they were all in league to shut me out! What would it mean? How could people like Uncle Ned and Aunt Mollie tolerate it? And yet there it was going on under their very eyes, and seemingly with their very sanction.

"I won't be jealous! I won't!" I told myself, fighting a hard and losing battle.

A Piquant Sauce

To make a piquant sauce to serve with Brussels sprouts or cauliflower, mix together in the top of a double boiler one teaspoonful each of mustard and salt, one-half teaspoonful of sugar, one-fourth teaspoonful of paprika, one egg slightly beaten and one-fourth cupful of mild vinegar. Cook until thickened, remove from the stove, heat in one-fourth cupful of any good salad oil and add a little onion juice and one teaspoonful of minced parsley. Pour over the vegetable just before serving.—October Good Housekeeping.

Sentenced to Be Shot

By Captors Who Know Not the Meaning of Mercy

By NELL BRINKLEY

Copyright, 1920, by International Feature Service, Inc.

THERE'S no doubt about it—she's fairly snared—and her exulting captors are hauling up their beautiful victim in mid-air, the better to shoot her with the arrows of love. And she's perfectly helpless, it doesn't matter how much she protests, it doesn't matter how much she defies the grinning little imps who have marked her for sacrifice; she has to submit. And when they have securely left her hanging and worked their magic upon her they will let her go free and still grinning with glee, watch her dash away as though she were quite heart free in spite of them. But they know better, for be it maid or man, once the arrows of Cupid hit the mark there's no escape; the fever's upon them—they begin to sigh and see the world all different, gloriously different; in a word, they're in love. —NELL BRINKLEY.

As Youth Passes By

By Beatrice Fairfax

"I WENT to high school for just two weeks; but because we hadn't any money I had to leave and go to work. I'm only fifteen, but I pass for eighteen and sometimes for twenty. Of course, this is unfortunate, but what most annoys me is that so much has been expected of me that I have simply had to grow up in mind as well as body.

"Father buys me pretty and expensive clothes, but when I wear them I feel as if I were some ornament with a 'Please don't touch' sign on it. I want a good time like other girls—but father is stubborn about it. It isn't my fault that I'm only fifteen. If I am big enough to leave school and go without education, something I wanted very much and still intend to have—if I'm big enough to work, don't you think I'm also big enough to have a little fun once in a while."

So writes a girl we'll call Ray.

Plenty of That Kind

There are plenty of "Rays" in the world. I know any number of precocious young girls who ought to be children and who have been forced by the thing called "economic pressure" out into the world to earn their way.

Poverty is a stern task-mistress. There are thousands of families in our city who haven't enough money on hand to keep things going. The children have to sacrifice their carefree youth and their school days and come out into the arena to earn their share toward the upkeep of a shabby little home.

It is a cruel necessity which drives a girl of fifteen out in the world. No one can help regretting the shortening of childhood, illusions and dreams and playtime are given to folks for a short enough time at best.

But there's nothing to be gained by fighting the inevitable. When poverty commands, youth has to put down its toys and march out to take up the weapons of life.

Now, then, why make bad matters worse?

A little girl who toils all day over notebook or ledger needs a good night's rest to keep her young, fresh and dewy. It is bad enough for her parents to know that by day she's out "on her own," struggling in a world that can't help showing her a lot of ugliness and sordidness and meanness—and downright badness.

But when night comes the parent birds like to watch over the little one ("little" to them even if she's five feet eight). They don't want to have her out in the night life of the city. They don't want to have her wearing herself out and making about in pursuit of gaudy, tinsel pleasure, with danger lurking ready to pounce on the youngster who—thank fortune—doesn't know all the dangers and pitfalls of life like an ugly, smirchy book.

Awful Bore

"Good times" get to be an awful bore to folks after awhile. Think of all the tired, blase faces that go about the city's street. Think of all the folks who talk about "enjoying you your enthusiasms," Ray. Now, they give you an idea of the foolishness of trying to drain the cup of life at one gulp? Don't they bring home to you the misery that comes from grabbing at things so greedily that after a time there's nothing left that seems worth the grabbing?

Truly, I don't believe a girl of fifteen is a good enough judge of men to be allowed to trot about with those she happens to meet at work or through other youngsters. I don't think she has enough experience to enable her to measure how near people come to meaning what they say and saying what they mean.

I think it's a dangerous thing for her to try to top off her work with society.

EAT and Get Thin

This is turning an old saying face about, but modern methods of reducing fat have made this version possible.

If you are overfat; opposed to physical exertion; fond of the table and its good things, and still want to reduce your excess flesh several pounds, go to your druggist (or write to the Marmola Co., 932 Marmola Bldg., Detroit, Mich.) and give him, (or send them) one dollar, thus satisfying your ambition for a trim, slim figure. Be sure to get a good size box of Marmola Prescription Tablets (compounded in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription); take one of these pleasant little tablets after each meal and at bedtime, and you will lose your fat at the rate of two, three or four pounds a week.

Then continue the treatment until your weight is what you desire. Marmola Prescription Tablets are not only harmless but really beneficial to the general health. You don't need starvation diet or weakening exercises. Just go on eating what you like, leave exercising to the athletes, but take your little tablet faithfully and without a doubt that flabby flesh will quickly take unto itself wings, leaving behind it your natural self, neatly clothed in firm flesh and trim muscles.

Children and Colds

By Brice Belden, M. D.

THE dangerous possibilities of what is commonly called "a cold in the head" are often underestimated in the case of young children. We usually think of an infection of the respiratory tract as due to drafts or wet feet, while as a matter of fact we are often dealing with a highly infectious disease caused by grippe germs.

Young children and infants are extremely sensitive to grippe germs, and the younger the child, the more dangerous the infection becomes.

Colds are very easily transmitted from one person to another, and it is the more sensitive infant population who suffer most from the consequences of carelessness. It is well understood in children's hospitals and orphan asylums that babies exposed to no kind of draft or chilling can be infected by a doctor or nurse suffering from "a cold in the head," infecting in turn every child in the ward.

In the home a child is often exposed to grippe germs which, running through the whole family in the form of "colds," will have no serious aspects until they endanger the youngster's life in the form of grippe.

The best way to combat grippe among children is to protect them firmly and positively from the inconsiderate visitor who attempts to kiss them, even when perfectly aware of the presence of an infection. For that matter, the members of the family should never be allowed to kiss the baby, especially on the mouth. The child's mother should make it a rule, for the sake of its health and happiness, never to kiss the baby on the mouth, but rather on the cheeks or forehead.

Infection in the hospital or in institutions can be prevented by protecting the children from each other by gauze screens and by the use of a gauze mask over the nose and mouth of any infected attendant or visitor.

Amusing the Baby

A-tish-oo.

The professor in the corner gave a violent sneeze, but his wife took no notice.

A-tish-oo.

A second sneeze issued from the professor's corner. Again his wife took no notice. But, at the third nasal spasm, their visitor broke in to say:

"Dear professor! What a bad cold he has!"

"No, it isn't a cold. It's absent-mindedness," replied his wife, throwing a scornful glance at her husband. "I left him in charge of the baby this morning—just for a few moments. But men are so silly with babies, you know."

"What did he do?" asked the visitor, in an undertone.

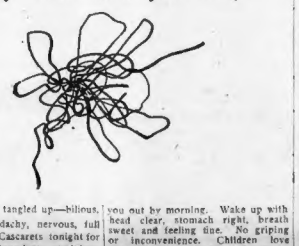
"Why, when the baby cried, 'he gave her the pepper-pot to play with instead of the rattle!"

An Anomaly

"Pa, what's an anomaly?" "I'm afraid you are too young to understand the dictionary definition, son." "Can't you give me some idea, pa?" "Yes, my boy. A famous star who doesn't own a big motor car is an anomaly."

Father's Wrath

Old lady, in shocked tones, to youthful smoker: "Dear, dear—wouldn't your father be dreadfully pained if he saw you?" Youthful smoker: "I rather think he would! This is one of his best cigars."



CASCARETS

"They Work while you Sleep"

Do you feel all tangled up—bilious, constipated, headachy, nervous, full of cold? Take Cascarets tonight for your liver and bowels to straighten you out by morning. Wake up with head clear, stomach right, breath sweet and feeling fine. No griping or inconvenience. Children love Cascarets too. 10, 25, 50 cents.

ABOUT OUR GOOD FRIEND

Taylor

Copyright, 1926, by The Ledger Syndicate

TAYLOR
VARIATION—Parmentier.
RACIAL ORIGIN—English.
SOURCE—An occupation.

HERE are two family names which are the sole surviving forms generally met with in this country of a group which at one time embraced a great number of variations.

There are two sources for the name of Taylor, and one for that of Parmentier. Originally the name of Taylor was descriptive of the occupation of the person to whom it was applied, the calling being either that of the tailor, or that of the "taseler," the latter word being now extinct, though strangely enough in industry, or rather, process in the textile industry which it represents, is carried on today by means of the same sort of thistle or burr from which the occupation took its name. The "tzil," "tasel," "tassel" or "tassel" was used to scratch the surface of cloth in order to produce a nap. It is still used today, though machinery is used in the application.

But as family names developed the spellings of "Taylzer" and "Tassler" became confused with the many variations of Taylor, of which "Talyer," "Taylleur" and "Taillour" were examples.

The "Parmentier" was simply another name, of Norman origin, for the man who made clothes out of cloth, old spellings of which were "parmintier," "parmenter" and "parmitar."

There is a branch of the Clan Cameron of Scotland which uses the name of Taylor, but in the form "Macan-taillear" (descendants of the tailor from "Taillear-dhu-na-tuighe" (The Black Taylor of the Axe—17th century). This of course merely traces back to the English word.

Tomorrow—Nevin.

The Adventures of Ann

By Hal Coffman

CHAPTER XXV.

ANN was dazzled by the attention paid to her by the mysterious woman after Harwood's invitation for all of them to go cruising in Harwood's yacht. The mysterious woman acquaintance of Ann was getting desperate. She did not want to do the things Harwood insisted she should in regard to Ann, but she was penniless except for the money Harwood gave her. Her one longing was to get out of it all and back to her home in the Middle West, where she could forget the past. She liked Ann and had resolved to protect her as far as she could. But, also, she had to live and was in Harwood's power to the extent that she had to pretend to do his bidding.

If they all went on the cruise in Harwood's big yacht, she had resolved to watch over Ann and trust to her resourceful mind to get them out of any difficulties. Harwood in his egotism did not know this, for he had grown to believe his money would get him anything he wished. Harwood had promised her that if she quieted Ann's suspicions he would give her enough money to go back home and out of his life forever.

Ann's father's simple mind was awed by Harwood's wealth and his interest in Ann. The old man knew that he had a better job than formerly—one that Harwood had given him—so he was content with things as they were. He had never taken the time to figure out why Harwood should be taking this keen interest in him and his family, and was too slow in the ways of the world to see what it was all about.

Betty was different, however. She resolved to put a stop to Harwood's influence in their home if she possibly could do it. She and Ann shared the same room, and as they went to bed that night Betty said to Ann, "Now that the house is all quiet, I want to tell you a few facts."

Smart Use of Fur

Fur is used profusely despite its price. One house shows as a substitute for fur cuffs and collar "fur" of ribbon loops. On heavy faille this is very pretty. Padded collars and cuffs are still smart, and there are also quilted collars—the stitching being done most decoratively on the padded collar. In faille or satin—the silk cloaks are lined with velvet or down—these collars are very smart.—October Good Housekeeping.

New Hair Growth After BALDNESS

HAIR GROWN ON MR. BRITTAIN'S BALD HEAD BY INDIANS' MYSTERIOUS HAIR GROWER

My head at the top and back was absolutely bald. The scalp was shiny. An expert said that as he thought the hair roots were eaten, and there was no hope of my ever having a new growth. Yet now, at an age over 60, I have a luxuriant growth of soft, strong, lustrous hair. No trace of baldness. The pictures shown here are from my photographs.

From recent photo. To my amazement a light fuzz soon grew over the scalp, awaiting the fertilizing potency of the mysterious pomade. I negotiated for and came into possession of the principle for preparing this mysterious elixir, now called Kotalko, and later had the recipe put into retail form.

That my own hair growth was permanent has been amply proved. Many men and women, also children, have reported satisfactory results from Kotalko.

Indians' Secret of Hair Growth

At a time when I had become discouraged at trying various hair lotions, tonics, specialists' treatments, etc., I came across, in a magazine, a Cherokee Indian "medicine man" who had an elixir that he asserted would grow me hair. Although I had but little faith, I gave it a trial. To my amazement a light fuzz soon grew over the scalp, awaiting the fertilizing potency of the mysterious pomade. I negotiated for and came into possession of the principle for preparing this mysterious elixir, now called Kotalko, and later had the recipe put into retail form.

YOU May Grow YOUR Hair

My honest belief is that hair roots rarely die even when the hair falls out through dandruff, fevers, diets or other disorders. I have been told by experts that often when hair falls out the roots become imbedded within the scalp, covered by hard skin, so that they remain for a time like bulbs or seeds in a bottle which grow when planted. Shampoos (which contain alkalis) and hair lotions which contain alcohol are useless to the hair, as they dry it, making it brittle. Kotalko contains three elements of nature which give new vitality to the scalp and hair.

Is Marriage a Success?

Interesting Discussion Now Going On in Columns of Boston American—Many Letters Received—Some Are Published Today—Others Will Appear Later—Read Them All and Then Write Your Own Opinion—Address Letters to Editor Boston American.

SAYS SYSTEM IS WRONG.

Marriage Editor: In answer to your question, "Is Marriage a Success?" I will say that I was a eighteen-year-old girl when I married a man of almost forty years of age. Of course, I was young and inexperienced, but I thought I loved him, and he was considered a good catch. My parents encouraged the match, and I was married in a fashionable church with all the pomp and display possible. Sometime after we were married I found out that my wife was addicted to the use of cocaine and morphine and also drank to excess. I endeavored to help her, but she would not be helped. She finally left me, and I secured a divorce on the grounds of desertion. I have never married, although I have been asked many times. I have seen a number of happy homes and many more unhappy ones, but I have come to the conclusion that marriages, even exceptional ones, are not a success. I have never met a man or woman who was entirely satisfied with their lot in life. How many times do we hear a man or woman say, "If I had only married the right person I would be happy." Marriage does not bring happiness, but rather misery and unhappiness.

My sister's marriage turned out to be an almost utter failure, due to her husband's drinking and then losing his business. For the past few years he has not contributed one cent to her support or that of their children, and she has not yet divorced him. She is active and defends him however, for I was present at a time when he brought me a present. How can he afford it? How many men will take off the world a fine woman and then refuse to support her and their children? I have seen a number of married couples who were happy, but they are few. Marriage does not bring me much happiness or interest.

It is interesting to know which equipment companies are in position to prosper to the greatest extent, so we have prepared a survey of the equipment situation, having analyzed the present financial status of the more important concerns, with the outlook for future business, and this survey appears in our current

PRICES ADVANCE IN BOSTON

Local Market Is Narrow, but Has a Strong Start; Curb Tone Improves

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks were strong in New York at noon but without the best level of the morning. Profit taking in rails made them irregular. Oils, steels and motors maintained their improved position. In the second hour Atchison A preferred and Minneapolis and St. Louis sold at 1920 highs. Gains issued were strong and good gains being recorded for Columbia and Consolidated.

Among issues to show almost three points gain were Punta Alegre, Mexican Petroleum and Stromberg. Several issues were off by fractions. Call money opened at 7 per cent. Foreign exchange rates had an irregular movement, opening strong and unsteady and sterling $3.43¾, up ¾ cent; francs 5.06¼, up 5-0625; lire 4.04½, off $.0062; marks 1.61½, off 1.6000.

NO DECISIVE TREND.

Irregularity characterized the price movement at the opening, but the majority of the issues showed gains. Changes averaged small whether up or down. The tone improved during the first thirty minutes. Rails continued in the lead, and St. Paul was an early feature in this department, both common and preferred selling at a new high for the year. Steels were firmer. The unfavorable trade statements by Judge Gary and other authorities that the industry is in good condition. Indian Pacific maintained a new high during the first hour, as did Atlantic Coast Line. Denver & Rio Grand preferred sold at a record low. Oils were up and led by Mexican Petroleum, which gained about 3 points in the first hour. General Motors sold ex-dividend and a little more. There was good demand for tobacco issues and they advanced. Sugars ruled higher. Punta Alegre gaining the most. Marine and Aeroporation was a strong shipping stock. At the end of an hour the list showed strength. Trading had few features up to mid-morning.

SENTIMENT MORE BULLISH.

Wall Street reports are to the effect that sentiment among professional traders has changed somewhat within a few days and that they have modified their views. Their chief failure to dislodge long stocks has convinced many that the market is getting quiet entirely from powerful interests. The forward movement of rails has acted like a charm and the confidence of manufacturers that business is going through the liquidating process without disaster is another influence of great importance. The money situation is getting easier. Crop movement is still in progress, and later the benefits of big harvests will be felt. In fact, it is said that the readjustment process has been going on quietly for months and that will be over sooner than has been expected.

AUGUST IMPORTS GROW BUT EXPORTS DECREASE

Foreign trade figures for August show a great change in this country's foreign trade, imports from Europe for the month totalled $114,-751,761, as compared with $66,889,369 for August, 1919, according to a detailed summary issued by the Department of Commerce. Exports to Europe for the same period totalled $293,024,383, as compared with $417,-373,674 for August, 1919. Other foreign trade changes were as follows:

Exports in August, 1920, to other North American countries were $7,26 203,982; South American countries were $27,967,451; Asia $10,007,481; Africa $1,713,918.

Imports in August, 1920, from North American countries were $27,907,603; South America $69,301,401; Asia $126,306,821; Oceania $37,905,541; Africa $5,203,913.

Imports from Germany during August totalled $12,490,770, as compared with $250,300 in August, 1919, while exports to Germany showed an increase from $17,000,750 in August, 1919, to $19,422,000 in August, 1920.

Imports from Italy in August, 1920, totalled $5,946,000, as compared with $109,206,870 in August of 1919. Imports from the United Kingdom in August, 1920, totalled $41,-844,288, as against $41,914,079 in August, 1919.

SPRINGFIELD TO HAVE STOCK EXCHANGE

Australian Wool Sale

Wool men all over the world were interested in the wool sale at Adelaide, Australia, it being the first open sale held in that country since the British government took control of the business. Of 50,000 bales of wool offered 15,000 were withdrawn. There was a keen local and American competition for the better grades. Inferior grades were neglected. The best wool sold at 38 cents, secured locally delivered. The price is approximately 55 per cent above pre-war prices, and is 12½ to 15 per cent. below local wool and date for date, below the last London auction prices for this kind of wool.

ABNORMAL DELAY IN BUYING OF COPPER

Regarding the copper situation, W. F. Bartholomew of Tucker, Bartholomew & Co., who is a Seneca and North Butte director, says the red metal was the first commodity to be liquidated and has fallen to a price which is restricting production. While there has been abnormal delay in buying copper because of the credit situation and a desire on the part of manufacturers to reduce inventories, he doubts if conditions warrant the pessimism expressed. He says:

"Europe is bare of copper and domestic consumers' stocks are at a minimum, so that production have to buy copper, and I maintain that under these conditions a healthy buying movement is due and there is no just basis for pessimism. In fact, I look for a pronounced change in the copper situation during the next thirty or sixty days."

Slow Deflation of Steel

Chairman John A. Topping of the Republic Iron & Steel Co. looks for no rapid decline in quotations for steel products. He says the process of deflating iron and steel prices will be necessarily slow, regardless of movements downward in other lines, because production of iron and steel abroad is restricted by scarcity and high prices of fuel and other influences tending to increase cost and restrict output."

MERRIMAC DEVELOPMENT CO.

Returns on a car of silver-lead ore received Saturday from the American Smelting & Refining Co. averaged Sixty-Seven Dollars ($67.00) per ton in Gold, Silver, and Lead.

Further shipments are in progress, and the new shoot of ore encountered last Friday on the two hundred twenty-four (220 ft.) level East has demonstrated a new deposit of copper ore.

We look for a very active market in MERRIMAC Stock from this time on, and we believe it is now at the bottom. We advise sending in buying orders now.

THE MERRIMAC DEVELOPMENT CO.

Saturday received returns on a car of SILVER-LEAD ORE which averaged over SIXTY DOLLARS ($60) PER TON in GOLD, SILVER, and LEAD.

They have encountered a new shoot of ore carrying copper values with other metals in their lower workings at the two hundred twenty-foot (220 ft.) level.

We advise the immediate purchase of this stock at present prices for an early rise.

PROFIT TAKING IN RAILS

Oils, Steels and Motors Are on a Higher Level at the End of Forenoon

Stocks were strong in Boston when the market opened and the upward movement continued during the morning, although it was not pronounced. Trading was narrow and of moderate volume. Rails were weak, but coppers had a better tone. It is said that they are being quietly absorbed by insiders on every recession. It is understood that they are highly regarded as investments at prevailing prices by some of the most astute financiers. Packing issues were quiet but firm. Auto accessories were irregular, Gray & Davis advancing and Ohio Body selling at a new 1920 low. Fluctuations were generally small, but issues to advance a point or more included Copper Range, Isle Royale, Osceola, St. Mary's Land, Gray & Davis and Edison. Ahmeek receded two points with Calumet & Hecla and American Woolen preferred declined one.

Fractional gains were made during the forenoon by Boston Elevated, Calumet & Arizona, East Butte, United Shoe, Connor Stores, Swift & Co. and Hilgeart. Losses of a point or more were registered by Swift International, National Leather, West End, New Haven and Allouez.

CURB MARKET VERY QUIET.

The Curb had a very quiet start, the majority of leaders being unchanged as to price on first sales. Arizona Silver began higher, while Ranier, Republic Navigation and Allied Mining were off. The market was narrow in all respects at the start. But it improved and was strong before the morning was over.

At the end of an hour Boston & Montana was up 6 cents at 49 cents, Arizona Silver 4 cents at 27 cents, Arizona Tip Top 1 cent at 12 cents, Merrimac Development 2 cents at 54 cents and Cascade 6 cents at 49 cents. Allied Mining was off 2 cents at 10 cents.

BOSTON FINANCIAL NOTES.

The decrease last week of $2,192,000 in the cash items of leading banks was due largely to Oct. 1 payments.

Lawton, Rose & Co. have opened a wholesale investment department under the charge of Prescott Dimmick.

It is figured from eight months' sales that Calumet & Hecla will earn $20 a share, or $6,000,000 as against $4,762,000 last year.

Yesterday's corporation organization in the Dodge Corporation totalled 7,000,000 pounds.

The Boston Curb Exchange committee has listed Allied Mining & Milling, which was organized under the laws of the State of South Dakota June 9, 1917. Its property is in Lawrence County, that State. Capital is $1,000,000, divided into 2,000,000 shares of 50 cents each, par value. Stock in treasury amounts to 1,000,000 shares and the stock issued is 1,000,000 shares; transfer agent and registrar, Security Transfer & Registrar Co.

September Mint Operations

During September, United States mints manufactured gold coin which turned out 9,730,000 silver coins and $1,855,000 minor pieces. The value of silver coinage was $1,855,000. Minor coins amounted to $785,950.

SHIPPING SLUMP IN ALL SEAS

Commerce of Every Nation Depressed; U. S. Suffers Less Than Rivals

By Universal Service.

Washington, Oct. 5.—Information received from London indicates that the decrease in ocean freight and passenger traffic in the last few months has caused a widespread depression in the shipping of all nationalities. A comparison of figures shows that the United States Shipping Board has suffered less than the merchant fleets of either Great Britain or Japan.

Recent English reports state that 785 vessels of all flags are tied up in British harbors, while several hundred are idle in Japan. It is stated unofficially, but on good authority that the Shipping Board now has twenty-six cargo vessels idle, and that not more than 150 are expected to be tied up at any time during the year.

The export movement of grain and cotton has been below expectations, but the board is holding its ships ready to take advantage of any active traffic. Considerable interest is shown here in the outcome of the threatening British coal strike. Enforced idleness of British shipping through lack of bunker coal would react to the benefit of American shipping because of the large proportion of oil-burning vessels constructed in this country.

Oil Well Completions

September oil well completions are reported by the Oil City Derrick as having totalled 3,466, a decline of forty-six. Production was 224,753 barrels, a decline of 65,765. The divisions to show an increase in completions were Kansas, Indiana, Wyoming and New York.

Railroad Earnings

August operating revenue of Atchison increased $1,218,541 while operating deficit decreased $6,262,647. For eight months ended August net operating revenues were operating revenue $28,522,000 and operating income $207,222.

Chesapeake & Ohio's operating income increased $1,487,333 for eight months ended August 31, while net operating deficit decreased $2,497,251. For eight months ended August Central of New Jersey reports operating revenue increased $2,149,272 and a decrease of $4,990,813 in operating deficit. For eight months ended August Erie reports operating revenue increased $8,226,078, and deficit decreased $8,226,078.

Pennsylvania reports for August an increase of $1,887,333 in operating revenue and a decrease of $3,008,948 in operating deficit. For eight months ended August operating revenue increased $11,350,622, while there was a decrease of $8,304,405 in operating deficit.

Wall Street Briefs

For the eight months ended with August the Pierce Oil Corporation reports net profit after depletion, depreciation and Federal taxes of $2,262,862, which is equal to $1.66 per share on the 1,360,698 stock outstanding.

United Alloy Steel Corporation reports this year up to August 31 approximated $3,600,000 which, after reserves for taxes, left a balance of $2,500,000 or $5.68 a share on the 440,000 shares of common stock outstanding, $1.48 a share in excess of $4 annual dividend.

It is announced from Chicago that Vice President Lord of Sears, Roebuck & Co. refused to accept the presidency of the company at a considerable salary, $50,000-000 notes to endorse, its National Title Co. announces that the $10,000,000 issue of 7 per cent. 10-year gold bonds offered last week has been subscribed for by the Guaranty Co. of New York, Kidder, Peabody & Co. and Harris, Forbes & Co. of Boston, Lazard Freres and the First National Bank of New York.

Argentine exchange opened the week by breaking to $38.25 cents, a loss of $.36 in the preceding period. Last week the extremes in check on Buenos Aires were $38.61 and $.38.25.

The Illinois Central has applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to create an authorized issue of 4 per cent stock of $15,335,000 to buy securities and cancel its issue for that purpose, equipment trust certificates series "F" to be sold to Kuhn, Loeb & Co. at a rate to cost company approximately 7½ per cent.

Net earnings by Willys-Overland for the first eight months of 1920 were $8,344,281, after full allowances for Federal taxes. This is equal to $5.57 a share on the common stock, or slightly over $2.75 a share on $15,000,000 of the new 6 per cent. preferred.

The Empire Tube & Steel Corporation reports net earnings for August of $5.60 per share on the preferred, or at the annual rate of nearly eleven times dividends requirements, on this basis the company would earn $3.10 annually per share on the common after payment of 8 per cent. dividends on the preferred.

Cotton Market Opening

New York, Oct. 5.—A continuation of yesterday's forenoon buying movement, together with good foreign buying and good cables caused an opening advance of 15 to 20 points in the cotton market here today. Spot prices were unchanged to 32 points higher. Spot cotton offerings decreased, especially in October, due to natives withholding supplies. Reports of crop estimates will not be issued until 15 to 20 points higher. Private reports of 12,450,000 bales of ginning were increased $11,350,622, while there was a decrease of $8,304,405 in operating deficit.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—Wheat was unchanged at the opening. Corn was 1¼ cents lower to ½ cent higher, December $1.06¾@1.06¾

How Private R. R. Control Prevents Development in Transportation

Dr. Leslie Ashton of Lawrence has just returned from Germany, where he toured for several months. He makes the interesting and remarkable statement that it costs considerably less to tour Germany by aeroplane than it does to travel in the United States by railroad.

He predicts that in five years, so great is Germany's development of the aeroplane usefulness, she will be able to conduct a trans-Atlantic aeroplane service which will convert ocean steamers practically into mere freight carriers. In this prediction Dr. Ashton is probably over-enthusiastic. But there must be some extraordinary development in Germany which so impressed the doctor as to make it possible for him even to have dreamed of such a project.

Is there any hope of developing such a service in America? No. Positively not while the railroads remain in private hands. Why? Because it will take a great deal of capital to organize such a service and no body of men will be permitted to get capital enough to organize this service while the railroads are in private hands.

This is true for two principal reasons. First, because the railroads will need every dollar that is at large which they can get their hands on, and even then they will not get enough to perform the service of the country as it ought to be performed. So great is the lack of public confidence in railroad management that now they are in a state of chronic appeal to the government for financial help. The other reason why an aeroplane will never be developed in this country as it was apparently being developed in Germany is that the railroads under private management and operation do not want and will not suffer the competition of the aeroplane.

Aeroplane development will be handicapped just as our canals were handicapped by the railroads and the development of aeroplane service in Germany will go on apace just as the development of canals in Germany went on and the difference in the fate of American canals and German canals is going to be repeated in the difference between the fate of the aeroplane in Germany and in America; and the cause will be the same. Germany owns and operates her own railroads. The United States foolishly lets private individuals, Wall Street stock gamblers and all their satellites and jackals operate these public functions for America. America started out with the finest system of canals in the world. We originated the canals as modern projects. A series of canals became a great national program. We led all the rest of the world in their development.

Then came the railroad looters pouring watered stock into the railroads until the amount of stock became so great that in order to earn dividends the railroads had to have rates so high that they could not compete with the rates at which freight could be transported on our canals. So the private managers of the railroads did the obvious thing. They proceeded to organize for the purpose of destroying the canals. Those canals which they could buy, they did. Those canals which were controlled by the public, they caused to be abandoned by bribery of public officials and by all kinds of chicane until these canals became nothing but dirty, unkempt creeks, overgrown with willows and weeds and choked with the wash of years. It was not until Roosevelt's day that the government dared to think that the canals might be useful to the country.

In Germany, however, where they owned their railroads and operated them, starting years after we did, they established a great canal system and while we were watching ours being destroyed, the Germans began to build their canals, building them even right alongside their railroads mile for mile until they have a great system of canals. On these canals they sent their heavy nonperishable freight and relieved their railroads of the congestion of this low classed tonnage.

All railroad experts and all electrical engineers know that the electrification of our railroads not only would give us wonderful comfort in travel, but would reduce the expenses of the railroads and increase the capacity of the railroads to carry freight and passengers so much that we might expect a very great decrease in their rates and carfares and a very great increase of service.

But there is no hope, as everybody knows, under private management. It will not come until the government takes the roads. Then we shall have electrification. Then we shall see great canals built to carry our coal, iron and grain more cheaply. Then we shall see all kinds of improvements in transportation experimented with for the purpose of giving the people the benefit of them, if they prove useful, and there will be an end of this accursed practice of buying up inventions and pigeon-holing them or by other methods preventing the improvements of transportation from being developed either because the railroads have not the money to adopt them since Wall Street has other purposes for the railroad income, or because the railroads fear the competition of a new and better method of transportation.

Sympathy for Rockefeller

According to tax lists just published it seems that John D. Rockefeller's taxable personal estate has shrunk from $5,000,000 to $2,000,000. This is terrible!

John! John! What have you been doing? We hope you have not been playing the races or the stock market. You were getting along so nicely, too, piling one million on top of another million. And now this dreadful slump!

Was it the high cost of living, John, that hit you? Was it the price of coal and butter and poultry and clothes that played such havoc with your savings? If it was we sympathize with you. It did the same to us, but, of course, upon a smaller scale.

It's fierce, isn't it, John? But you get a little rakeoff on the cost of gasoline, don't you, John? That ought to help some.

But do not despair. By practising economy you may yet retrieve your loss. Learn to save. Remember that a nickel saved is a nickel earned. Keep away from cabarets and evil companions, do not drink or smoke, do not buy new clothes or shoes until the old ones are unfit to wear, and, who knows, in a week or so you may get the $3,000,000 back.

Our hero tries to sidestep his bride and the fourteen children for a little while by disguising himself as a friend of Bill Bryan. But the lady has him spotted from the drop of the hat. The only way he can shake her is to prove that he was insensible when he married her. Ah, well, it's a cold world. Just when you least expect it something or other always——

More Truth Than Poetry

Pinkneyville Gets Light

By S. E. KISER

Experts have been engaged to interpret the Covenant of the League of Nations for the benefit of people who think plain English means what it says.

THEY'VE sent a man out here to show
Just what the League o' Nations means;
Some people are so dense, you know,
They can't tell cabbages from beans.
With others, I was rather slow
To see it, though it's plain as day;
There used to be some points I feared,
But this wise gent they sent has cleared
The difficulties all away.

I HAD the foolish notion, too,
That mebby five and three made eight,
But I've been learnin' something new—
The expert gent has set me straight.
Says he: "The trouble is that you
Ain't read between the lines; you think
That white is always white, instead
Of mebby bein' brown or red,
Or even yellowish or pink."

"BUT what about that number ten
Among the articles?" said I.
He seemed to pity me, and then
He sighed a long and weary sigh.
"Now, listen," he remarked again,
"And, if your mind is not too small,
You'll try, hereafter, to be free
From doubts concernin' that; you see
It don't mean what it says, at all."

SO there you are! That settles that;
There's no more cause to be in doubt;
We know exactly where we're at,
The whole thing has been straightened out.
Remember d-o-g spells cat,
And all your doubts will disappear;
Don't think that b-a-d spells bad,
But read between the lines. I'm glad
The expert came and made it clear.

ORDER AS SIR ED SEES IT

Sir Edward Carson has called upon his followers to help to "restore order in Ireland." Sir Edward's idea of a restoration of order involves the killing of all who are not numbered among his followers.

THE WOMAN QUESTION AGAIN

Many women attended the first of a series of prize fights to be "held" in Madison Square Garden, New York. Or would it be more fitting to refer to them as "ladies"?

Letters to the Editor

Pinchot for Harding

Editor Boston American:

So many former Progressives have asked me why I am for Harding that perhaps your readers might be interested in my reasons. Here they are:

I am a follower of Theodore Roosevelt, alive or dead. Had he lived my choice for the Republican nominee and for the next President would have been Theodore Roosevelt. But only the spirit of Roosevelt is with us still. The Republican convention has perforce chosen another candidate. I cannot have what I wanted. That, however, is no reason for throwing my vote away.

Senator Harding and I have opposed each other in politics. He has many friends who are not mine, and there is not a little in his record that I regret. On the other hand, I find deep in his confidence men whom I trust; what I like least in his record is farthest back; and what he has said about forestry, conservation and agriculture at Marion is sound and right. Senator Harding was not made to my order, but he is by no means the reactionary I thought him. He is a Republican regular, who supports what his party agrees on, and acts with the majority. There is nothing autocratic about him. Under him there will be no one-man rule at Washington. Congress will represent not the President but the people, and the government will be American again.

Cox is in bad company. The liquor men are for him. He stands with Baker, who refused to prepare when he knew that war was sure to come, and therefore sent against the German machine guns thousands of young Americans untrained or half-trained and without artillery support.

If a man believes in Wilson, argument is useless. As for me, I hold that it is time to finish all that smacks of Wilson, with the inefficiency, extravagance and secretiveness, with the national and international blundering, and with the impudent assumption of wisdom and righteousness beyond human. The only way to repudiate Wilson is to vote against Cox.

Finally, Cox is too reckless in statement, too shifty in argument, too much like a man running for a little office in a little town. His speeches shout it aloud—Cox is too small to be President. Harding's speeches could have come only from a man big enough to handle the job.

By K. C. B.

Dear K. C. B.—Every evening I take a walk and meet many small boys. Whenever I meet one who smokes a cigarette I take it away from him and step on it, and the "little boys" always get mad and bring their big brothers and their gangs and I have to fight and beat them up or get beaten up. What would you do? Should little boys be permitted to smoke and swear and throw dice?

H. BUDERUS, V. C.

MY DEAR Buderus.
YOU'RE IN the right church.
BUT THE wrong pew.
OR IN other words.
IT'S QUITE all right.
TO DO what you can.
TO MAKE little boys.
BE GOOD little boys.
BUT YOUR method's wrong.
AND WHEN you're through.
WITH THE cigarette.
THAT THE little boy had.
AND IT'S thoroughly ground.
BENEATH YOUR heel.
AND YOU'VE had a fight.
WITH THE little boy's gang.
AND HAVE gone your way.
THE LITTLE boy.
AS A matter of fact.
IS MUCH worse off.
IN A moral way.
THAN HE was before.
AND IF I were you.
WHEN I took my walks.
AND FOUND a boy.
WITH A cigarette.
I'D JUST be friends.
WITH THE little boy.
AND TALK to him.
AND I wouldn't tell him.
IT WAS very wicked.
TO SMOKE cigarettes.
BECAUSE IT isn't.
AND, ANYWAY.
LOTS OF little boys.
TAKE A very great pride.
IN BEING wicked.
I'D SIMPLY tell him.
HOW SILLY it is.
TO ACQUIRE a habit.
THAT AFTER a while.
HE'LL BE sorry for.
AND THE first time you tell him.
THE CHANCES are.
HE'LL THINK you're a nut.
BUT KEEP going back.
TILL HE knows you're not.
UNLESS, OF course.
YOU ARE a nut.
AND I don't think you are.

I THANK you.

What Laws ARE Permanent?

Intelligent Democrats, and Some Other Curious Things

Copyright, 1920, Star Company.

President Wilson having signed the American Merchant Marine bill, or "Jones bill," annuls it, declaring in substance that, although passed by Congress and signed by himself, it does not exist because he disapproves it.

The President's authority to annul legislation will presumably be passed upon by Congress. It would not be respectful or useful for any individual to question the President's authority. But this question arises:

Just what laws are permanently in existence? To what extent could the President, by explaining that he did not understand a law when he signed it, annul other laws passed by Congress and signed by himself?

If the President, who represents one branch of governing power, can declare laws void, after they have been passed and signed, could not Congress, another branch of the same power, also recall it own acts? Are all laws temporary?

There are some intelligent Democrats in New Hampshire. Perhaps they noticed the Maine election, and some other things.

They "favor the League of Nations," but their idea is to take Article Ten OUT of it. That reminds you of the gentleman that would amend the Ten Commandments by taking out the word "not." That would have settled the Ten Commandments.

Taking out Article Ten would settle the League of Nations to a considerable extent. But the people of the United States will settle it more effectively on November 2, by taking out ALL articles from No. 1 to the last.

The women of the country are by no means alone in their opposition to the League of Nations and its suggestion that foreign governments should conscript American fighters—and money.

The Army and Navy Legion of Valor, consisting of American fighters that have won the medal of honor, adopted this resolution:

"We are unalterably opposed to the approval of any League of Nations which would give such a league the power to call on this nation to furnish troops to carry on a foreign war."

That is the power that Article Ten of the covenant of the league would give to Europe.

The women that create the fighters are against the league, and the honor men, the best fighters that America has sent out in the three last wars, are also against it. That ought to settle it.

"Gompers breaks with European radical leaders."

This is one of the straws showing that this country is headed in the direction of conservatism, and will follow that direction for a long time.

In 1776 we were a radical nation, breaking away from king rule, ahead even of France. In 1920 we are a conservative nation, which is probably all for the best.

People ought not to be radical until they know HOW to think radically, sanely and in law-abiding fashion at the same time.

The statement that Mr. Gompers breaks with radical leaders means that he does not approve of the determination shown by workmen in England to control the government for which they work and the country in which they live.

Whether Mr. Gompers opposes it or not, we could not possibly have in the United States such a labor movement as there is in England, France, Italy or Germany. Movements of the European kind require homogeneity of population.

In France they are all Frenchmen, in England, all British, in Italy all Italians, in Germany Germans.

Here we are of ALL nationalities. Each nationality hates at least two others. And with difficulty they can be made to agree.

Labor is divided, it does not trust its own leaders, and its leaders do not trust the rank and file.

Capital is united and intelligent. Capital trusts and helps ALL capital. There will be no real radicalism here for many a day.

MAKE A JOB OF ANY JOB

Delivering the goods, not getting the order, is what counts big.

When you apply for a position don't tell your prospective employer what a valuable person you could be to him.

Ask for a trial and tell him if he is not perfectly satisfied with you, after that, he has the privilege and your consent to discharge you.

The man who proposes such a bargain usually wins a trial at least, and it is a man of this sort who knows he can deliver the goods who gets the steady position.

Nearly every applicant for a position is positive in the assertion that he or she is able to perform the duties of the office desired.

Somes men and some women when they apply for a job ridicule the idea that they might not be able to fill the place and thus belittle the job.

They forget that it requires experience, skill and energy to perform the simplest thing as well or better than anyone else.

Even an unimportant position becomes distinguished according to how you work to achieve great things.
